NOTIFICATION.

The 3rd July 1888.—The following is published for general information in supersession of the notification, dated the 2nd February 1887, printed on page 77, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of that date :—

The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to direct, under section 45 of the Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878), that the river Gunduck and its tributaries, so far as they flow within his jurisdiction in the Chumparun district, or along its borders, are areas within which all unmarked wood and timber, and all wood and timber on which the marks have been obliterated or defaced by fire or otherwise, are deemed to be the property of Government, unless or until any person establishes his right and title thereto under the provisions of the said Act and the rules made under it.

The Lieutenant-Governor approves the following rules with regard to the collection of drift timber in the Gunduck river and its tributaries in the Chumparun district.

Drift Timber Rules for the River Gunduck and its tributaries, so far as they flow in or along the boundaries of the Chumparun District, within the jurisdiction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, made under section 51 of the Indian Forest Act.

1. Drift timber may be salved by any person.—All pieces of unmarked wood or timber, and all pieces on which marks have been obliterated or defaced by fire or otherwise, found adrift, beached, stranded, or sunk in or on the banks of the river Gunduck and its tributaries, may be salved by any person.

2. Report to be made when wood or timber is salved.—The salvor shall intimate the fact that he has salved wood or timber to the Forest Officer, or to such Police or other officer or subordinate as the Forest Officer may from time to time direct to receive such reports.

3. Salvage fees.—Any such person who shall have salved wood or timber under these rules shall be entitled to receive as salvage fees—

(a) in the case of wood or timber, the ownership of which is proved and admitted under section 47 of the Indian Forest Act—from the owner, through the Forest Officer, 50 per cent. of the value thereof, as adjudged by the Forest Officer:

(b) in the case of wood or timber that becomes vested in Government under section 48 of the Indian Forest Act—from Government, 50 per cent. of the net balance of the sale account of the said wood or timber, after deducting therefrom all expenses of transport and other charges (if any): such salvage fees to be paid after the sale has been effected.

4. Payments required when drift timber is shown to be the property of a claimant.—No such wood or timber shall be delivered to any claimant who (under section 47 of the Indian Forest Act) has been recognised to be the owner until, under section 50 of the said Act, he shall have paid to the Forest Officer 50 per cent. of its value as adjudged by that officer, together with such other expenses as may have been incurred in salving the said wood or timber. Should the recognised owner fail to make these payments within 10 days of his receiving intimation from the Forest Officer of the amount due, the property salved shall be dealt with (under section 48 of the Act) as unclaimed timber.

5. Salved timber which may become vested in Government to be sold to the best advantage.—All drift and stranded wood and timber salved under these rules, which may become vested in Government under section 48 of the Indian Forest Act, shall be sold to the best advantage after two months from the expiry of the period fixed for the disposal of claims under section 46 of the said Act.

6. Penalty clause.—Any person who shall infringe any of the provisions of these rules shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

The Lieutenant-Governor is further pleased, under section 2 of the Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878), to vest the Collector of the Chumparun district, the Sub-divisional Officer of Bettiah, and the Officer in charge of the Gorakhpur Forest Division, Oudh Circle, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, with the powers of Forest Officers for the purpose of carrying out the rules made under section 51 of the said Act for the salving, collection and disposal of drift and stranded wood and timber on the river Gunduck and its tributaries, so far as they flow within his jurisdiction in, or along, the borders of the Chumparun district.

For the purpose of carrying out the said rules, such subordinates as may be employed by the Officer in charge of the Gorakhpur Forest Division shall be deemed to be officers of the Forest Department in Bengal of Class III within the meaning of the notification under sections 2, 24 and 75 (a) of the Indian Forest Act, dated the 25th July 1879, published at page 777, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 30th idem.

NOTIFICATION.

The 28th June 1888.—The following revised rules, which have been framed by the Chief Presidency Magistrate for the guidance of Benches of Magistrates in the Town of Calcutta, under section 21 of Act X of 1882, and sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, are published for general information:—

1. The Unpaid Presidency Magistrates shall sit in the rotation arranged by the Chief Magistrate.

2. Unpaid Presidency Magistrates shall try only such cases as may be referred to them by the Chief Magistrate.

3. Unpaid Presidency Magistrates shall ordinarily open their Courts at noon and rise at 5 P.M. on the dates fixed by the Chief Magistrate. A special Bench may, however, be convened on any other day or at any other hour by the Chief Magistrate.

4. A Bench shall ordinarily be composed of not less than three Magistrates, when they are all Unpaid Magistrates, or of two when one of them is a Stipendiary, but the Chief Magistrate may, in his discretion, permit any two Magistrates to proceed with the hearing and disposal of cases.

5. The Chief Magistrate may, should he deem it desirable, appoint any Unpaid Presidency Magistrate sitting singly to be a Court, and on business being sent to him by the Chief Magistrate, he shall dispose of the same, but not otherwise.

6. Should any Unpaid Presidency Magistrate named for attendance on a Bench fail to be present on the appointed day, the Chief Magistrate may, in his discretion, either summon another Magistrate, or direct that the Bench should proceed without the absent member.

7. The Stipendiary Magistrates shall be ex-officio members of Benches; the Chief Magistrate shall, if present, officiate as Chairman: in his absence, the Junior Stipendiary Magistrate shall, if sitting, officiate as Chairman. In the absence of both the Stipendiary Magistrates, the Chief Magistrate shall nominate the Chairman.

8. The Chairman shall conduct the proceedings of the Court and exercise all the functions in that behalf usually exercised by a Stipendiary Magistrate when sitting singly; he will decide upon the admissibility of evidence, and maintain order in the Court, but it shall be open to any member of the Bench to put questions to the witnesses, either direct or through the Chairman, as the latter may deem advisable, and to suggest any matter for the Chairman's consideration.

9. Every member of a Bench shall have a voice in the finding and sentence. In a Bench consisting of three members, the opinion of the majority shall prevail; when there are only two members, the Chairman shall have a casting vote.

10. The Chairman shall himself ordinarily record the evidence and judgment in cases where a record of evidence and judgment is necessary; but such duty may, with his consent, be performed by any of his colleagues, or the evidence and judgment may be taken down by the Chief Clerk at the dictation of the Chairman.

11. A Bench may hold one or more adjourned sittings, should it be necessary to do so, for the disposal of business or of part-heard cases; but it shall be open to a Bench at the close of each sitting either to refer unheard cases back to the Chief Magistrate for disposal, or to postpone them to some other day, as may be most convenient; but adjournments should be, as far as possible, de die in diem.

12. Any part-heard case adjourned by a Bench composed of three Magistrates may be proceeded with on the day fixed for the adjourned hearing before any two of the said Magistrates; provided always that the accused person or persons give his or their consent. All subsequent hearings of the case, where further adjournments are necessary, shall be before the same two Magistrates.

13. Any part-heard case may be sent back to the Chief Magistrate for disposal, should it appear unsuited for trial by a Bench.

14. It is the duty of the Registrar of the Court to assist the Unpaid Presidency Magistrates, as far as lies in his power, on any question of practice, &c., that may arise.

15. The Registrar shall submit to the Chief Magistrate a weekly return showing—

(a) the names of such Unpaid Presidency Magistrates as are absent without or on insufficient notice;

(b) the hour at which the Benches sit; and, in the event of any Bench of Magistrates taking its seat after the appointed hour, the reason thereof;

(c) the hours at which the Benches rise, and whether their file of cases has been disposed of;

(d) list of cases disposed of;

(e) list of cases adjourned, and the grounds of such adjournment.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 27.)

INDIA—SOUTH COAST.

CEYLON—SOUTH-EAST COAST.

Attention called to the new editions of certain Admiralty Charts.

THE following Notice to Mariners (No. 139 of the year 1888), issued by the British Admiralty, is republished :—

The attention of Mariners is called to the new editions of Admiralty Charts Nos. 813 and 2031, giving the results of the re-survey of the south-eastern coasts of Ceylon from the Little Basses to Trincomali by the Officers of H. M. S. Eyeria, under the command of Captain P. Aldrich, 1887.

The offshore soundings now given are of such a nature as to render navigation perfectly safe in the thickest weather, if the lead is attended to, and the ship is not allowed to come into less than 20 fathoms of water.

The disasters which have taken place from time to time on this coast, supposed to have been on dangers situated some miles from the shore, were probably due to difficulties in fixing the true position ; difficulties caused by the absence of soundings, and also by the fact that some of the mountain peaks in the interior, used as landmarks, were not in their true positions on the former charts, an inaccuracy now remedied from the trigonometrical survey of Ceylon, carried out by the Surveyor-General of that Colony.

Charts Nos. 828 and 70 will be shortly corrected for this new information.

Note.—Mariners navigating on the coast of Ceylon should consult the Bay of Bengal Pilot, 1887, pages 378—390, wherein is contained a monthly statement of Currents and Winds on the coasts of Ceylon, as experienced in 100 voyages round that island by Mr. Thomas Robson, Commander of the Colonial Government Steamer Serendib, during the five years, July 1881 to September 1886.

BAY OF BENGAL.

ANDAMAN ISLANDS.

Depth of water on the three Coral Banks off the West Coast.

THE following information has been received from Commander Alfred Carpenter, R. N., and is the result of a late Survey by H. M. I. M. S. Investigator, variation 2° E. See Admiralty Charts 825, 514, 70, 830; also Bay of Bengal Pilot, 1887:—

The Coral Banks.—The three large banks off the west coast of the Andaman Islands are composed of dead Coral and Sand. On West Coral Bank, the northern one, the least depth is 6 fathoms near the centre; on Middle Coral Bank the least depth is 23 feet rock where the rocky strata crops up through the Sand and Coral; also near the centre of the bank; and on South Coral Bank the least water is 6 fathoms.

The banks are safe to cross in fine weather; the water is very clear and looks much shoaler than it really is.

PORT BLAIR.

Northern Red Buoy has been moved one cable west of its old position.

The northern red buoy limiting the reef off the Port Officer's Jetty has been moved one cable west of its old position, and now lies 4 cables N. N.-W. ½ W. of the wooden pier end.

BURMA COAST.

KYOUK-PHYOU HARBOUR—ARRACAN.

Two dangerous shoals, a mile west of Saddle Island.

From comparison of old charts, and by information lately gathered, there appear to be two dangerous shoals which break in heavy weather a full mile west of Saddle Island. H. M. I. M. S. Investigator struck shoal water 4¼ fathoms, hereabouts in 1885, as she was leaving Kyouk-Phyou, after finishing the survey of the actual harbour. Vessels should not pass eastward of the Irrawaddy shoal.

BASSEIN RIVER—GULF OF MARTABAN.

Placing of a red tripod beacon with white cage on the Wali Rocks near the entrance of the river; and erection of a tripod beacon on Cockatoo Rock; also regarding Long Sand; Ridge Shoal; Pariah Rock; Panmawaddi Flats and Elbow Shoal.

The Port Officer of Bassein reports as follows:—

A tripod beacon, red, with white cage, 16 feet above high-water, has been placed on the Wolf Rocks near the entrance of the river. It should not be approached from the eastward within 3 cables.

The Long Sand is now an island with trees on it.

The channel north of Ridge Shoal has closed, except for very small vessels. The two ends of this shoal are marked by red buoys.

Pariah Rock has been marked by a conical red buoy.

The Panmawaddi Flats extend right across the river, and there is only 3 fathoms water over the deepest part at low-water.

A tripod beacon has been erected on Cockatoo Rocks to act as a tide-gauge showing the water on the flats.

The Elbow Shoal is now a middle ground

Its western edge is marked with a conical black buoy.

Regarding Jali Kund or Hog Island, Dart Rock, and Hawkin's Reef.

THE following information has been received from Commander Alfred Carpenter, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India:—

Jali Kund or Hog Island is shown on the present Admiralty Chart 744 one mile west of its true position with regard to Pigeon Island and the neighbouring peaks.

Dart Rock, the position of which depended on Hog Island, has been lately examined by Her Majesty's Indian Marine Steamer Investigator and found to be one mile nearer the shore than formerly stated. It lies with the following bearings and distances:—

Modeshwar Point	...	...	E by N 2 miles.
Hog Island	...	...	S S E 5¼ miles.
Pigeon Island	...	...	S W by W ½ W 8$\frac{5}{10}$ miles.

Depths of 6 to 6½ fathoms are found round it.

Hawkin's Reef is the extension of a rocky patch a mile north of Modeshwar Point. From the extreme of the patch Modheswar Point bears S E ½ S distant 1$\frac{1}{10}$ miles. It can be cleared by keeping Hog Island open to westward of the largest rocky islet S W of Modeshwar.

PART IB.

ORDERS BY THE LIEUT.-GOVERNOR OF BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL.

NOTIFICATION.

The 1st July 1888.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following additional rules under clause (i), section 138 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act III (B.C.) of 1885, in supersession of rule 3 of the rules made under clauses (i) and (r) of the said section:—

PART IX A.

DISTRICT ENGINEER'S ACCOUNTS.

1. As the District Engineer is always located at the station where the District Board's office is situated, it is unnecessary for him to have a separate cash chest, and consequently it is not necessary for him to keep a separate disburser's cash-book, or to render disburser's accounts. His duties in respect to payment will, as far as possible, be confined to passing certificates and bills as correct, in order that they may be presented for payment, at the District Board's office, to the persons to whom money is actually due.

2. An imprest may be granted by the District Board to the District Engineer of such amount as the Board may from time to time fix, provided that it shall in no case exceed Rs. 1,000.

3. Imprest cash-books shall be kept in Form No. 1. If necessary, the District Engineer may give a sub-imprest to any subordinate recouping this from his own imprest.

4 Disbursements by the District Engineer and his subordinates shall as a rule be confined to payments not exceeding Rs 20. All cash payments by the District Engineer and his subordinates shall be met from the imprest.

5. Any miscellaneous receipts, such as the sale proceeds of materials or produce, fines or refunds, shall be at once remitted to the Treasury. Such remittances shall be accompanied by a challan (Form No. 2) in triplicate bearing the initials of the remitter. The original challan will be retained by the Treasury Officer, and the others will be returned duly receipted to the District Engineer, who will forward the duplicate to the District Board's Office, retaining the triplicate in his office.

6. Works shall be carried out, as far as possible, either by contract or by piece-work. Such work shall be paid for on certificates in Form No. 3 for contract work, or No. 4 for piece-work.

7. If daily labour is employed, muster-rolls will be kept and filed in the District Engineer's Office, copies being retained by the subordinate in charge of the work. Sircars, peons, chowkidars, and other petty establishment specially employed for particular works, though charged as daily labourers, will be paid monthly on acquittance rolls.

8. All materials purchased will be vouched by bills or purchase lists (Forms Nos. 5 and 6).

9. The expenditure on each work will be brought together in a day-book (Form No. 7). The day-book will show the expenditure on the work, the quantity of work done, and the rate of work on each item. The expenditure will be posted from details contained in the vouchers as passed by the District Engineer.

10. Duly authorised establishment charges will be brought forward in monthly bills, which will, when practicable, be paid directly from the District Board's Office, proper receipts or acquittance rolls (Form No. 8) being taken from the recipients.

11. There is no such suspense head as "Stock" provided for in the District Fund accounts, and the manufacture and keeping of "Stock" must therefore be avoided whenever it is possible to purchase good material as it is required. Materials required for any work will be charged as "material at site" against the estimate for the work. In exceptional cases, if material cannot be charged as "at site," the value must be charged in the account of "advances," a sub-head being opened for each description of material.

12. Road metal will be accounted for in Form No. 9, further details, when necessary, being shown in Forms Nos. 10 and 11, which will be kept up in the District Engineer's office.

13. Measurement books (Form No. 12) and note-books will be kept by the District Engineer and his subordinates. As the measurement book is the basis of all accounts of quantities, whether of work done by piece-work, petty contract, or contract, the entries therein must be carefully made. From the measurement book all quantities must be clearly traceable into the accounts, and it must show clearly the progressive measurement, i.e. the total quantities executed up to date on account of each work. The measurement book will, as a rule, accompany the subdivisional officer's bills, and it must be carefully compared with the latter, and also with the details in the sanctioned estimate. Any differences due to errors, excess quantities, or unauthorised items of works, must be at once enquired into, and the District Engineer will initial the measurement book in token of its having been checked and examined up to date, and that it is a complete record of each kind of work done, for which certificates have been granted.

14. When note or measurement books are issued, the name of the subordinate to whom issued and the date of issue will be noted on the book and attested by the signature of the District Engineer. A list of all books issued will be kept in the District Engineer's office in view to their being promptly called in and filed when done with.

15. The documents and accounts to be submitted by the District Engineer to the District Board's office will be as below detailed:—

(a) Duplicate of imprest cash-book, with vouchers, submitted from time to time, as recoupment is required, or at not longer intervals than once a month even if the imprest is not fully exhausted, in order that the disbursers' payments may be brought into the accounts of the month during which they have been made.

(b) Certificates or bills for work executed or materials supplied after being duly checked and certified as correct.

(c) Bills for the salaries of all establishments duly certified as correct.

(d) A day-book for each work and repair in progress during the month.

(e) A schedule or list of the day-books showing the amount of each.

These will be compiled by an Accountant in the District Engineer's office, who shall be qualified as required by rule 6 of the rules made under clauses (g), (l), and (m) of section 138 of the Act.

16. Certified copies will be kept in the office of the District Engineer of all bills and certificates. In the case of those to be paid in the District Board's office, the original, after being certified to as correct by the District Engineer, will be returned to the payee for presentation at the District Board's office for payment, the certified copy being sent by the Engineer direct to the District Board's office by way of advice. After payment, the original will be filed in the District Board's office as a voucher for the payment, and the certified copy will be returned receipted to the District Engineer for his guidance in respect to further certificates, but no payment will be made on these bills and certificates unless supported by an acknowledgment by the officer or subordinate concerned that the work has been efficiently done, or the supplies received, as the case may be.

17. The books to be kept in the District Engineer's office, besides the imprest cash-book, will be—

Register of bills passed	(Form No. 13).
Register of works	(,, ,, 14).
Register of tools and plant	(,, ,, 15).
Register of road metal	(,, ,, 16).
Account of advances	(,, ,, 17).
Account of deposits	(,, ,, 18).

18. In the register of bills passed will be entered all bills and certificates received in the office.

19. The register of works is the next most important record to the cash-book, and care must be taken that it is posted with perfect accuracy, and that the entries for each work are strictly in accordance with the sanctioned estimate. In addition to entering the item of work, each sub-head in the abstract estimate will be numbered, and the corresponding numbers entered in the register: thus—No. 1, excavation; No. 2, earthwork; No. 3, soling, &c.

When in case of emergency or to prevent loss or damage expenditure is incurred on items of work for which provision has not been made in the sanctioned estimate for the work, the amount will be separately shown in the work register, and not charged off against any other sub-head on which there may be a saving, and subsequent sanction must be applied for without any delay.

In the case of original works and repairs, no item of estimate under Rs 200 will be separately detailed in the register of works, and no work or repair estimated to cost less than Rs. 2,500 will be accounted for by sub-heads, except in cases where the District Engineer may desire it.

When a work is completed, a double line in red ink will be ruled below the last entry, and the following note made:—"Work completed and completion report forwarded to the Chairman with No. dated ."

20. The half-yearly registers for tools and plant, and for road metal will be kept in Forms Nos. 15 and 16 respectively; the expenditure on tools and plant will be entered in the register (Form No. 14) in the same manner as works and repairs. Each item, whatever may be the amount, must be shown in detail, and at the end of every half-year account will be taken by a responsible officer, who shall certify the fact in the body of the register, any difference in balance at the end of the half-year between the figures of the columns "As per this return" and "Actual as counted" being fully explained.

21. In the District Fund accounts all advances for works will be charged to the separate suspense account of "Advances," which is credited with the value of work done, supplies received, or labour performed, as the case may be.

22. All advances to contractors and others shall be made from the District Board's office, and all deposits shall be paid direct into that office, but in special cases the Board may authorise the District Engineer to make such petty advances, within prescribed limits, as may be considered necessary. The accounts of advances and deposits to be kept in the District Engineer's office will therefore be but memoranda for the guidance of the District Engineer in issuing certificates for payment. The accounts shall be kept in Forms Nos. 17 and 18, a separate folio being opened for each, and shall be balanced every month.

23. District Engineers shall submit their accounts so as to reach the District Board's office not later than the 17th of the month following that to which the accounts relate.

NOTES.

1. The cash transactions of the District Engineer and his subordinates will be recorded in this simple form, which is kept in duplicate.

2. Each officer or subordinate with whom an imprest account is to be opened, receives at starting, from the District Board or District Engineer a round sum as a standing advance or imprest, which is at once entered in the account; the disbursements from this advance are entered daily as they are made, clearly and in full detail; and from time to time, as the imprest-holder finds it necessary, the account is closed and balanced, the right hand half-page is cut off and sent to the officer from whom the imprest is held, the counterfoil being retained by the disburser. This account is supported by the necessary vouchers numbered and tacked on so as to correspond with the order of the entries in column 2, "Voucher No." The officer to whom the account is submitted, after carefully scrutinizing the account in regard to the propriety of the payments, the clearness and accuracy of the entries, and the sufficiency of the vouchers, reimburses the imprest-holder, the exact sum expended, so as again to bring the imprest cash in hand up to the original amount.

3. The account will contain no entries of receipts other than recoupments of expenditure, nor any entries of expenditure, other than those paid directly by the imprest-holder himself from the amount of his imprest; consequently the fixed standard of imprest should never be exceeded.

4. To facilitate the extracting of the charges shown in the Imprest cash book, column 6 is provided to show the head under which each charge has to be classed. In order to prepare the charges for entry in the cash-book, the entries will be abstracted (on the back of each working form) under the several heads in red ink by the District Engineer.

NOTES.

This return is kept as a record of the disposal, mile by mile, of metal collected for consolidation, being posted from the details in Form No. 10. This form will not be required in cases when the contract is let in a lump sum for supplying the metal and laying it down also.

2. In dealing with road metal it is absolutely essential to keep the numerical account of each mile separate. The metal should not be transported from one place to another, but must be on the spot where it is originally deposited; and where metal is being collected on estimate, it is essential for proper check that the mile in which the metal is being collected should be specified; otherwise it is impossible to say that the metal is being provided within the rate allowed by the estimate.

3. A very important and large part of the business of the District Engineer of a district consisting of finished roads is to buy and lay down metal, and his attention may, therefore, be properly very much directed to watching and recording the results of those two operations.

NOTES.

1. The Register of Works is the District Engineer's permanent and collective record of work done. The form has columns for quantity and cost of each head or sub-head of work done, and the last column gives the total cost. The first line shows in red ink the estimated work and outlay as per "Abstract of estimate." Under this will be entered, month by month, from the day-books the actual expenditure incurred during the month, and the total of work done and the total expenditure up to the end of each month. The entries of quantity will be taken from the "Progress" recorded on the Day-books, and those of cost from the "Summary of charges."

2. The Register of Works should contain a record of every original work or repair estimated to cost more than Rs. 200, showing the expenditure month by month compared with the estimate, and, in the case of works estimated to cost over Rs. 2,500, with the sub-heads of the estimate.

3. The Register will be supplied with an index which should be sub-divided under the departmental heads and neatly kept for ready reference. The utmost punctuality should be observed in posting this Register to date, i.e., the posting of the Register should be complete when the monthly accounts are submitted.

4. In the case of original works, the amount of appropriation for the year should be noted in the Register at the top of the page after the authority for the work, and any additions and reductions made during the year should also be noted in the same place.

5. When "supplementary" estimates are sanctioned, the items of sub-heads should be entered below those of the original estimate, and both totalled.

6. When it is found necessary to have a "revised" estimate, the Register of the "original" estimate should be closed, and the "revised" estimate entered on a fresh page, reference to the page on which the original estimate is to be found being entered.

7. When necessary, extra columns should be opened for fines from contractors, &c."

8. The Register of each work on which there has been expenditure during the month should be initialled by the District Engineer in the column (15) set apart for the purpose in token of his having examined the entries and found them correct.

Rule 2.—Meetings shall be either ordinary or special.

Rule 3.—An ordinary meeting of the District Board shall be held on the last Saturday of every month. Provided that, if the last Saturday of any month falls on a gazetted holiday, or if for any other reason it is deemed inconvenient, the Chairman may fix another day for the ordinary meeting of the Board.

Rule 4.—A special meeting of the District Board may be called at any time by the Chairman. The Chairman shall be bound to call a special meeting on a requisition signed by one-fourth of the total number of members.

Rule 5.—The subjects referred to in rule 65 of Part IV of the General Rules, and section 29 of the Act, shall be dealt with at special meetings only.

Rule 6.—All other subjects which come within the province of the District Board may be dealt with at either ordinary or special meetings.

Rule 7.—Meeting shall be held at the office of the District Board, or at such place as the Chairman may from time to time determine on sufficient reason being recorded by him.

Rule 8.—The notice under rule 67 of the General Rules shall be sent by post or by such other method as may be convenient. Provided that if a local newspaper be published at the head-quarters of the District Board, the Board, by a resolution duly passed, may decide that the publication of such notice in the newspaper in question shall be sufficient.

Rule 9.—Notices of motions accompanied by verbatim drafts must be sent to the Chairman in time to be included in the list of business for the next meeting. Notices received too late shall be inserted in the list of business of the next succeeding meeting.

Rule 10.—A notice-book shall be kept by the head clerk of the Board, in which all notices of motions shall be entered. All such notices shall be dated and numbered as received.

ADJOURNED MEETINGS.

Rule 11.—An adjourned meeting is not competent to transact any business save that which the original meeting left unfinished.

Rule 12.—An adjourned meeting, being merely a continuation of the original meeting, does not require any fresh notice.

CONDUCT OF PROCEEDINGS AT MEETINGS, &c.

CLAUSE (b).

Order of business.

Rule 13.—At ordinary meetings the business shall be conducted in the following order:—

(a) The minutes of the last ordinary meeting, and of any special meeting held since, shall be read.
(b) Business postponed from the last ordinary meeting shall be considered.
(c) A progress report of works shall be laid before the Board.
(d) Letters and reports of Committees shall be read, and accounts and statements shall be considered and passed.
(e) Motion of which due notice has been given to be discussed.
(f) Any other business which may be brought forward, provided that the majority of the members present consent.

Rule 14.—At a special meeting only the business for which the meeting was called shall be considered.

Rule 15.—In the event of any objection being raised to the manner in which any resolution has been recorded the Chairman shall decide the question after reference to the original draft of the resolution, and if he finds the minute to be inaccurate, shall make the necessary correction in the minute-book.

Rule 16.—Unless by permission of the majority of the meeting, all subjects shall be discussed in the order in which they appear in the notice paper.

Of motions and amendments.

Rule 17.—Every motion and amendment duly moved must be seconded, and until seconded no debate thereon can take place.

Rule 18.—Every amendment shall be so worded as to be capable of making an intelligible sentence, either alone or in its proper place, in an original motion, as the case may be; provided that no amendment can merely negative the original motion.

Rule 19.—The President of the meeting may, for reasons to be recorded in writing and entered in the minutes of the proceedings—

(a) rule that a motion or amendment is illegal or out of order, and
(b) make such alterations in a motion or amendment as shall in his opinion render it legal and in order; and may in case (a) refuse to put the motion or amendment to the meeting unless and until the proposer and seconder accept the alterations so made, and the decision of the President shall be final.

Rule 20.—After a motion has been moved and seconded, an amendment may be moved at any stage of the debate thereon.

Rule 21.—On the discussion being concluded, in the event of several amendments having been proposed, the President shall put the last amendment to the vote first; if it is negatived, he shall put the last preceding amendment; and lastly the first amendment; and if all the amendments are lost, the original proposition shall be put to the vote.

Rule 22.—When a motion or an amendment has been put from the chair, and been declared by the President to be duly carried, no further proposals for amending the motion or amendment can be entertained.

Rule 23.—Every member shall ordinarily stand when addressing the meeting, provided that the Chairman may for any reason permit any member to sit while so doing.

Rule 24.—The member who first rises to address the meeting, shall be entitled to be heard first, and should more than one member rise to address the meeting at the same time, the order of precedence shall be determined by the President.

Rule 25.—Any member shall be at liberty to call the attention of the President to a point of order, even when a member is speaking. On a point of order being raised, the member addressing the meeting shall resume his seat until the question has been decided by the President. After the decision of the President, the same point of order cannot be raised again. Except as provided by this rule, no member shall interrupt a speaker in possession of the meeting.

Rule 26.—Except as provided in the last proceeding rule, no member shall speak except to move or second a motion or amendment, or to support or oppose a motion or amendment which has been duly moved and seconded

Rule 27.—A speaker who has exhausted his right to speak on an original motion, may speak on any amendment being moved.

Rule 28.—The mover of a motion or amendment shall in all cases have a right of reply, but otherwise no member shall speak more than once on the same motion or amendment, unless in explanation of some part of his original speech.

Miscellaneous.

Rule 29.—Unless not less than one-half of the members of the Board consent by signing a requisition, no subject once finally disposed of can be reconsidered within six months.

Rule 30.—For the purpose of taking into consideration business involving many details, the meeting may resolve itself into a Committee of the whole body. When this has been determined on, the rule prohibiting any person from speaking more than once on the same question shall be deemed suspended until the meeting resumes.

Rule 31.—When a motion or amendment is put to the vote, the President shall, if the mover or seconder so desire, record against it, first, names of members voting for it, and then the names of those voting against it. If the mover or seconder do not desire the names to be recorded, it will be sufficient to record the number of members for and against the motion.

Rule 32.—Voting by proxy is prohibited; and no member may vote upon any motion or amendment unless he be present in person at the time when it is put to the vote.

Rule 33.—The minutes shall, if the mover or seconder so desire, contain a brief abstract of the discussion preceding each resolution.

Of protests or dissents.

Rule 34.—Protests must be limited to a concise and definite statement of the motives which prompted the votes of members who voted in the minority on a given question.

Rule 35.—Notice of protests must be handed to the Chairman before the conclusion of the meeting at which a resolution protested against was passed, and the protest must be handed in not later than the next succeeding meeting.

Rule 36.—Protests duly made shall be appended to the minutes and published in the same manner as the minutes are published.

Of adjournments.

Rule 37.—It shall be competent to any member to move the adjournment of the debate or of the meeting in a speech not exceeding five minutes in duration.

Rule 38.—When a motion for the adjournment of the meeting or of a debate is made, it shall be seconded without a speech, and put by the Chairman to the vote without debate or amendment

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN, CALCUTTA, 1887-88.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Darjeeling, the 25th June 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual Report of the Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, for the year 1887-88.

THE Report, which is one of considerable interest, shows that steady progress was made during the year. Among the plants cultivated in the garden, the largest demands were made for the rhea and the rain-tree (Pithecolobium Saman). Mahogany trees were also propagated and distributed to a great extent. Many valuable contributions from well-known botanists were made to the Herbarium during the year. Among these, the set of plants of the large natural order Euphorbiaceæ, which were placed at the disposal of Sir Joseph Hooker, are of special value, as they have been returned by him bearing in his own handwriting the names given to them in his Flora of British India. The Library of the Botanic Garden also received a valuable acquisition in the transfer to it from the Royal Gardens at Kew, through the courtesy of the Director, Mr. Thiselton Dyer, of the correspondence of Dr. Wallich, extending from 1794 to 1849. The remarks made by the Superintendent in paragraph 6 of the Report, on the subject of the potato blight in Sikkim and the Khasia Hills, will be communicated to the Agricultural Department for consideration.

2. The thanks of Government are due to Dr. George King, F.R.S., for his admirable management of the garden during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

No. 21G, dated Calcutta, the 15th May 1888.

From—DAVID PRAIN, ESQ., M.A., M.B., Acting Superintendent, Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit herewith the One Hundred and First Annual Report of the Royal Botanic Garden.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN FOR THE YEAR 1887-88.

No great change occurred in the garden during the year. Some minor improvements were effected. One more entrance gate was provided with a suitable durwan's lodge. A new road was made from the picnic banyan to the tree-nursery. This supplies a felt want, and forms the first instalment of a road system that will open up the part of the garden occupied till 1872 by the Agri-Horticultural Society, where the shrubs and trees are now in a condition worthy of being exhibited. This system will provide an alternative entrance to the gardens from the Andul Road. A considerable portion of one of the conservatory houses was replanted. Plants of the giant water lily (Victoria regia) were grown in several of the garden lakes. They attracted visitors largely, and though, as is usual, nearly all perished in the cold weather, seedlings have been raised in the nurseries for the ensuing year. The season being favourable to vegetation, and the number of plants exceeding that of former years, the show of orchids was finer than ever. Five separate attempts at encroachment on the boundary of the garden have been made during the year. All of these were successfully repelled, but the frequency of the occurrence, which has taken place in spite of the existence of a well-defined series of boundary pillars, has rendered it necessary to address Government for instructions as to the best means for preventing such disputes.

Economic plants.

2. Notwithstanding the failure of parties interested to devise a satisfactory machine for cleaning Rheea fibre, this plant has been in greater request than ever. The demand for seeds and plants of the rain-tree (Pithecolobium Saman) was very extensive. This tree, a native of America, the history of whose introduction is narrated in the Garden Reports from 1878—81, is already well known in Bengal. Its timber is not valuable, but it grows rapidly, gives excellent shade, and is a useful nurse if planted with slower growing trees, to be cut down when the latter are sufficiently established. The reason for the suddenly increased demand was the statement that the rain-tree will grow on Usar soil, and that such soil can thus be reclaimed. Usar soil is barren: what is apparently meant is that the tree will grow on soil impregnated with reh salts. Such soil is not necessarily infertile, though without special treatment it may not afford crops except during the rains. The effects of the presence of trees may easily explain the absence of efflorescence of the reh salts without much improvement in the nature of the soil, nor would it be surprising to find that after a series of years of rain-tree cultivation analysis of the soil showed little change. But the cultivation of the tree is simple, and must increase the amenity of such districts; while its profuse crop of sweet pulpy pods, which cattle greedily eat, ripening as it does in April and May, supplies a valuable fodder when usually fodder is most scarce. Mahogany and other economic trees and plants were propagated and distributed to the fullest extent of which the garden is capable. A quantity of a special kind of wheat which grows in Mexico at an elevation of 11,000 feet was sent by the Secretary of State for India for experimental cultivation in Bengal. This was sent to Sikkim. It was received in March 1887, and had to be kept till October, the proper season for sowing. When it was sown unfortunately none of the seed germinated. In April 1887 a consignment of Eragrostis Abysinnica, or Teff, was also sent by the Secretary of State for India for experimental sowing. This grain is a native of Abysinnia at an elevation of 6,000 feet. It was sown both in Chota Nagpore and in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, but has not been successful in either locality.

Herbarium.

3. The Herbarium was considerably enriched during the year. A set of plants of the large natural order Euphorbiaceæ, which had been placed at the disposal of Sir J. D. Hooker while describing that family for the Flora of British India, has been returned by the author. Each sheet is named by the author's own hand, its value as a type specimen being thus rendered priceless. From Kew the Director, Mr Thiselton Dyer, C.M.G., has sent many valuable specimens; from St. Petersburg Dr. Regel and Mr. Maximowicz sent some valuable specimens which had been particularly asked for; Dr. Garcke of Berlin showed the same courtesy regarding some types which do not exist elsewhere; a beautiful set of Austro-Hungarian plants was presented by Dr. Kerner of Vienna; these, with a named collection from Mr. Medley-Wood of Natal and some critical specimens from Baron Von Müller of Melbourne, complete the extra-Asian contributions. Among Indian additions the chief place is due to the large and beautiful collection of rarities from Burma and the Shan Hills sent by General H. Collett, C.B. There were also received a fine collection from the Sikkim-Nepal frontier made by a Bhotea employed by Mr. Pantling, and an equally fine one made by a garden collector in the Chittagong Hill Tracts. Many rare things were also sent by Mr. G. Mann from Assam, Khasia, and Sylhet; Mr. J. F. Duthie of Saharanpur contributed a large number of named North-West Himalayan plants, and Major Sedgwick, R.E., a few interesting specimens from Kashmir.

4. Perhaps the most notable event of the year has been the transference of the correspondence of Dr. Wallich, Superintendent here between 1817—46, from the Library of the Royal Gardens at Kew to this Library. It constitutes 33 large volumes, and extends from 1794—1849. Some less valuable, but still highly interesting, botanical papers relating to Bengal and Assam accompanied the Wallichian correspondence. For the whole we are indebted to the good will and liberality of the distinguished Director of Kew, Mr. Thiselton Dyer, C.M.G., F.R.S.

5. The interchange and distribution department was particularly active. More plants were distributed than in any former year. This was in great measure due to the impetus given to roadside planting by the enlightened action of the Government of Bengal in the Department of Agriculture. Of plants 11,966 were received, against 67,854 given out. Of seeds 773 packets were received, against 2,714 given out. The names of all donors and recipients appear in the appendices to the report.

6. The Lloyd Botanic Garden at Darjeeling was under the charge of Mr. W. Kennedy. The ravages of potato-disease in Sikkim and the Khasia Hills have given a shock to the introduction of English tubers recommended in former reports. The improvement of quality noticed in 1885-86 has not continued. In 1886-87 it was found that English seed generally had turned out waxy and tasteless. The deterioration in quality, in all probability due to altered climatic conditions, has been accompanied by impaired resisting power, and they have fallen a prey to disease. Without raising any question as to the source of the disease, which those interested in introducing English seed not unnaturally declare to have previously existed in India, or at least deny having introduced with English seed, the fact remains that English tubers are particularly liable to be attacked. It seems desirable that seed from Malta, Australia, or elsewhere, where the conditions of growth differ less widely from those in the Indian hills, be imported rather than English ones.

7. The budget allotments of both Calcutta and Darjeeling gardens were spent in full. At Calcutta Rs. 784-11-6 were realised from the sale of surplus plants, or Rs. 615-4-6 below the amount estimated, and at Darjeeling garden produce brought in a revenue of Rs. 961-12—an excess of Rs. 661-12 over the amount estimated.

8. Dr. King was absent on privilege leave from 27th June to 20th September 1887, and his duties during the interval were undertaken by me in addition to my own as Curator of the Herbarium. Mr. H. Bahr was Curator of the garden during the year; Mr. W. Kennedy, as already stated, held charge of the Darjeeling garden; and Mr. William McHardy was Assistant Curator at Calcutta.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h. 10h. 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 56, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the results during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The rainfall are the same kind of average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past year, the district results in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

CALCUTTA, the 3rd July 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 29TH OF JUNE 1888.

THE week under review has been a noticeable one in the meteorological history of the year, as the monsoon rains have only commenced over the greater part of the province during the latter end of the week, and they have therefore been about two weeks later than usual. At the close of the previous week the monsoon current blowing from the Bay of Bengal was being deflected towards Burma and the eastern districts generally, and Assam had been receiving heavy rain for some considerable period. The area receiving rainfall was, however, gradually extending, and moderate to heavy rain was being received in the Rungpore, Julpigoree, Cooch Behar and Darjeeling districts of North Bengal; but the greater part of the remainder of the province had been almost rainless throughout the week ending the 22nd. A slight advance of humid winds had, however, taken place on this day in the western districts, as was shown by the rapid increase in the humidity in Behar, and moderate rainfall, apparently to a great extent brought about by a series of local storms, was reported on the 23rd from all the districts of South-West Bengal, except Midnapore and Moorshedabad. On the following day the area of rainfall contracted, and except at some of the stations in East and North Bengal, rainfall was practically absent from the province, and again ordinary hot weather conditions obtained over the greater part of Bengal. On the 25th and 26th, weather conditions had not changed to any material extent, except that there were slightly more favourable indications of the probability of the monsoon drifting over Bengal; but on the 27th a rapid and important change took place. On this day it almost appeared as if there had been a decided increase in the strength of the Bombay branch of the monsoon current; pressure rose rapidly in the western and central districts, and a south-westerly wind current set in at many of the stations in the centre and north of the province; and even at Darjeeling a strong south-westerly wind, averaging 21 miles an hour, was reported. With this sudden inrush of winds considerable interaction took place, and thunderstorms became numerous in the south of the province. On about the same day also the Bay of Bengal monsoon current commenced to spread over South-East Bengal, and it has since that day steadily advanced over the whole province, and from the 27th to the 29th considerable amounts of rain have been received. In South-West and East Bengal the general rainfall commenced on the 27th, and over a large part of North Bengal it began from about the 28th, except in the districts previously mentioned, viz., Rungpore, Julpigoree, Cooch Behar and Darjeeling, where rain has been reported throughout the week. In North Behar and Chutia Nagpur also rainfall generally commenced about the 28th; but in South Behar even on the 29th, rainfall, though fairly general, was still very partial in some districts. Finally, in Orissa rainfall was light and irregularly distributed throughout the week. The monsoon rains may therefore be said to have only broken in the province from about the 27th to the 29th, and as the usual date of commencement is from the 10th to the 15th, or, say, the 12th June, the rains have been quite a fortnight late in setting in.

In the previous week's report it was stated that the delay in the advance of the monsoon current over Bengal, so far as could be judged, was probably due to the existence of disturbed conditions off the West Pegu and Arakan coasts, and that there were also distinct indications of the continued existence of a feeble low-pressure area in that locality. With the setting in of the rains in Bengal, the whole of the indications above referred to have completely disappeared, and conditions now appear normal in the Bay. But with the disappearance of these conditions in the Bay, a feeble but distinct tendency to the formation of a low-pressure area has commenced in South and South-West Bengal. The appearance of this tendency to low pressure, and consequent cyclonic circulation of winds in South Bengal simultaneously with the disappearance of these conditions in the Bay, may be merely a coincidence, or it may be they are directly connected with each other; but perhaps the latter is more probable, though the evidence available is not sufficient to prove any distinct connection between the two, or to prove the transfer of the disturbance from the one area to the other.

Pressure.—For the earlier part of the week the oscillations of pressure were of little importance, but, as stated previously, a rapid rise took place on the 27th, which was coincident with the setting in of favourable conditions for the commencement of the rains. When the mean pressures of the various stations in the province from which observations have been received for a long series of years are compared with the normal for the week, the distribution of pressure is found to be very unusual. Thus pressure has been distinctly below the normal at the greater number of inland stations in the centre of the province, while to the west and east there are bands of comparatively higher pressure. At such stations as False Point, Cuttack, Saugor Island, and Hazaribagh, the mean pressure has been above the normal; and at the eastern stations, such as Dacca, Burrisal, and Chittagong, pressure has also been above it; while at Calcutta, Burdwan, and Jessore, and most of the inland stations, pressure has been very distinctly below the normal, the extreme variations being from an excess pressure of about 0·04 inch in the one case to a defect of 0·038 in the other. For the whole province these variations to a great extent neutralize one another, and the mean pressure is only in defect of the normal by three thousandths of an inch.

Temperature.—Owing to the almost complete absence of rainfall from the greater part of the province for the first four days of the week, temperature has again been rather largely in excess of the normal in all districts except North Bengal, where an almost normal temperature has been recorded. In Chutia Nagpur the mean temperature for the week has been no less than 10·2° in excess of the normal, and in South Behar the excess has been 7·9°. In South-West Bengal and Orissa the excess has varied from 4° to 5°, and in East Bengal and North Behar it has equalled about 2°. For the whole province temperature for the week has been in excess of the normal by 4·6°. In Assam, on the other hand, the mean temperature has been in defect by 3·2°. Dehree again reports this week the very high maximum temperature of 114°, and Gya one of 112·1°.

Rainfall.—The period of the occurrence of rainfall has been previously recorded. The falls have been heaviest in North Bengal, which averages 5·24 inches, and has thus received a fall rather larger than the normal amount of 4·42 inches. In East Bengal an average fall of 3·90 inches is recorded, or almost absolutely the normal amount. In South-West Bengal a fall of 2·13 inches is recorded, or slightly lower than the normal for the week. The next largest fall is in North Behar, which averages 1·35 inches, or only about 50 per cent. of the amount usual at this period. In South Behar a fall of 1·04 inches is recorded, and Chutia Nagpur has received 1·01 inches, which amounts are about two-fifths of the normal falls; and finally, in Orissa a fall of only 0·65 inch has been received, which is only about a fifth of the usual amount.

In North Bengal some extremely heavy falls have been received during the week, and thus at Alipore Doosr (Julpigoree district) 23·24 inches has been received, at Dinhatta (Cooch Behar district) 19·53 inches, and at Fallacotta (Julpigoree district) 17·68 inches. Contrasted with these excessive falls, Sorah and Balasore in Orissa, Tajpur and Roshera in Durbhunga, Sasseram and Arrah in Shahabad, Daudnagar in Gya, Barrh in Patna, Monghyr and Gogri in Monghyr, Bhagulpore and Kolgong in Bhagulpore, and Hosseinabad in Lohardugga, have received absolutely no rain during the week.

The general districts in which the rainfall has been very scanty during the week are Pooree, Cuttack, Balasore, South-West Midnapore, South 24-Pergunnahs, Bogra, Pubna, Rajshahye, Maldah, Dinagepore, Purneah, Mozufferpore, Durbhunga, Sarun, Shahabad, Patna, South Bhagulpore, Monghyr, and Chyebassa.

In Assam excessive rain has been received during the week. Dhubri reports the extremely large fall of 26·06 inches, Silchar 9·47 inches, and Sibsagar 1·83 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 29th of June 1888:—

MEMORANDUM.

THE principal Municipalities in Bengal returned during the week ending 16th June 1888, the birth and death-rates of 17·3 and 23·3 per 1,000 of population, respectively, as opposed to 18·6 and 20 per 1,000 in the preceding week ending 9th June, indicating a fair advance in the registration of deaths with a falling off in that of births.

2. The Municipalities which returned the highest proportions of births and deaths are—

		Patna	29·9

3. The following table exhibits that, as compared with the results of the preceding week, there was an enhancement of mortality from all diseases, particularly from fever and the maladies coming under the head of "Other causes" :—

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans here alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

INDIA—SOUTH COAST.

Attention called to the new editions of certain Admiralty Charts.

THE following Notice to Mariners (No. 139 of the year 1888), issued by the British Admiralty, is republished :—

The attention of Mariners is called to the new editions of Admiralty Charts Nos. 813 and 2031, giving the results of the re-survey of the south-eastern coasts of Ceylon from the Little Basses to Trincomali by the Officers of H. M. S. Egeria, under the command of Captain P. Aldrich, 1887.

The offshore soundings now given are of such a nature as to render navigation perfectly safe in the thickest weather, if the lead is attended to, and the ship is not allowed to come into less than 20 fathoms of water.

The disasters which have taken place from time to time on this coast, supposed to have been on dangers situated some miles from the shore, were probably due to difficulties in fixing the true position; difficulties caused by the absence of soundings, and also by the fact that some of the mountain peaks in the interior, used as landmarks, were not in their true positions on the former charts, an inaccuracy now remedied from the trigonometrical survey of Ceylon, carried out by the Surveyor-General of that Colony.

Charts Nos. 828 and 70 will be shortly corrected for this new information.

Note.—Mariners navigating on the coast of Ceylon should consult the Bay of Bengal Pilot, 1887, pages 378—390, wherein is contained a monthly statement of Currents and Winds on the coasts of Ceylon, as experienced in 100 voyages round that island by Mr. Thomas Robson, Commander of the Colonial Government Steamer Serendib, during the five years, July 1881 to September 1886.

Any candidate obtaining less than one-fourth marks in either subject (1) or subject (2) shall be disqualified. Candidates will not be eligible for the Lower Division of the Financial Department (if with reference to Rule 18 below the Department adopts these Rules), or for the Office of the Accountant-General, Public Works Department, unless they obtain at least one-third of the full number of marks in Arithmetic.

5. Every candidate for an appointment in the Upper or Lower Division must send a written application for permission to appear at the examination to the Secretary to the Board of Examiners between the 1st and 15th days of December (inclusive).

[FORM.]

To the Secretary to the Board of Examiners,

Fort William.

SIR,

I request permission to present myself at the ensuing examination of candidates for appointments in the Upper / Lower Division of Government Clerkships. If successful, I should elect to serve in the office of the . A treasury receipt for the fee of Rs. 10/20 is forwarded herewith.

I am, &c.

6. The application under the last rule should be in the form given on the margin, and be accompanied by a treasury receipt for the sum of either Rs. 10 or Rs. 20, according to the division (Lower or Upper) in which the candidate may wish to appear. This sum he is required to pay into the treasury nearest his place of residence by way of examination fee. With the application must also be forwarded—

(1) Evidence (except in the cases provided for by Rules 8 and 9) that the candidate at the date of making his application is not less than 18 and not more than 24 years of age. The date of the candidate's birth must be stated.

(2) In case the candidate has been educated at a school in which students' good conduct registers are kept, the candidate's register for the last year of his attendance at school when a year has not elapsed since he left school. In other cases, a certificate that the candidate is of good moral character from the head of the institution in which he has last been educated, or from some respectable householder to whom he is well known in private life, and who is himself known to a District or Sub-divisional Magistrate or to the head of some Government office,—this last fact being certified by the countersignature of the officer in question.

7. The number of candidates to be selected by the Examiners for each Division will be notified in the Gazette of India by the Home Department on or before the 31st October. This number will be determined in communication with the heads of the offices concerned, with reference to the number of vacancies existing or estimated as likely to occur within the course of the following year (and which it is not intended to fill under the provisions of Rules 12, 13, and 14), plus a margin of 10 per cent. for casualties. One-half the number of vacancies offered will be reserved for candidates domiciled in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Punjab, and the Central Provinces, Rajputana, Central India, and Baluchistan, provided that a sufficient number of duly qualified candidates to fill these appointments appear from those territories.

8. Persons who have at any time held a permanent appointment in any of the offices affected by the Resolution, but who may have lost such appointment owing to its abolition or on reduction of establishment, may present themselves for examination under these Rules, provided they are under 40 years of age.

9. Clerks who were serving in the Lower Division of an office before the date of these Rules, and who are under 40 years of age, may, with the permission of the head of the office, present themselves at the examination for appointments in the Upper Division. No clerk who enters the Lower Division after the date of these Rules will be permitted to appear at the examination for the Upper Division unless he is under 24 years of age.

10. As soon as practicable after the open competitive examinations, the Board of Examiners will report the result to the Home Department. The report will take the form of a list giving the names of selected candidates and the exact dates of their births; the distinguishing numbers of unsuccessful candidates; and the number of marks obtained by each candidate, whether successful or unsuccessful, in each subject of examination. The Home Department will then circulate a list of selected candidates to the heads of the offices concerned. Candidates will be given their choice of Departments as far as possible; and the Home Department will intimate such choice, if made, to the head of each office. The head of each Department will, however, be at liberty to offer a vacant appointment which may occur in his Department to any selected candidate remaining on the list. This offer should be made through the Home Department, which will keep each Department of the Government of India informed as the names of selected candidates are removed from the list. No candidate selected in a later year shall be offered an appointment until the offer has been made to and refused by selected candidates of an earlier year remaining on the list.

11. When an outside candidate for either Division attains the age of 25 years, or when two years have expired from the date of the entry of his name on the list, or when any candidate has refused the offer of an appointment in the Department in which he has elected to serve, or has twice refused the offer of an appointment in any other Department or Departments, his name shall immediately be removed from the list.

12. Every alternate vacancy in the Upper Division, excluding vacancies in the offices of Registrar, Superintendent, Head Assistant, Personal Assistant, or appointment involving the control or supervision over divisions of an office, and every third vacancy in the Lower Division, may be filled by the head of a Department without reference to the preceding rules.

13. Appointments made under the last preceding rules shall, if the person appointed is not in Government service, be made subject to the conditions that the person appointed—

(a) is at the time of appointment not less than 18 and not more than 25 years of age;

(b) can give satisfactory evidence that he possesses a minimum educational qualification equivalent to the Entrance standard of one of the Indian Universities if appointed to the Lower, and to the F. A. standard of one of the Indian Universities if appointed to the Upper Division;

(c) must produce satisfactory evidence that he is of good moral character.

14. Any officer already in Government employment may be appointed to any vacancy such as is referred to in Rule 12 without regard to the qualifications specified in the preceding rule.

15. The heads of offices to which these Rules apply are at liberty to arrange transfers from the Upper Division of one office to that of another, or from the Lower Division of one office to that of another. The transfer of an officer from a post in an office to which the Rules apply to a vacancy in another office to which these Rules also apply shall, for the purposes of Rule 12, be held to be the filling up of a vacancy.

16. Before a person who is not already in Government service is actually employed in any office, he must produce a certificate from a Government Medical Officer of or above the rank of Surgeon to the effect that he is in good health and of a sound constitution.

17. Every candidate, whether selected by examination or nominated, who receives an appointment, will be on probation for twelve months; and if at any time during that period, or at its close, his work is not considered satisfactory by the head of the office in which he is employed, he will receive his discharge, and will have no claim to gratuity or compensation on that account. This rule will not apply to clerks selected for the Upper Division, who were previously permanent clerks in the Lower Division of the office in question, nor to clerks selected from other Government offices; but such clerks may, if found unfit for the higher grade, be relegated to their former appointments, or, so far as may be, to appointments of corresponding emoluments. To provide for such cases, arrangement should be made by which promotions in the place of the transferred clerks should be sub. pro tem. until the latter have passed their period of probation.

18. The above Rules will apply to the Secretariat Offices of the Government of India, except the Foreign Department and the Department of Finance and Commerce, whenever the latter fills vacancies by recruitment of officers already holding clerical appointments in any of the Account Offices subordinate to it. When the Department of Finance and Commerce does not recruit in this manner, the Rules will apply. They will also apply to the Offices of—

The Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India,
The Surgeon-General with the Government of India,
The Director-General of the Post Office of India,

19. On the occurrence of any vacancy hereafter in any office which has to be filled by open competition under these Rules, and when no candidate qualified under the Rules is available to fill such vacancy, appointments may be made under Rules 12 to 14.

20. These Rules shall take effect from the date of their issue.

RESOLUTION ON THE POLICE ADMINISTRATION REPORT FOR CALCUTTA AND SUBURBS FOR 1887.

RESOLUTION.

POLICE.

Dated Darjeeling, the 4th July 1888.

The Annual Report on the Police Administration of the Town of Calcutta and its Suburbs for the year 1887.

The Reports for the year 1886 and the orders of Government thereon.

The following statement shows the number of cognizable and non-cognizable cases reported in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta during 1887 and the two years preceding:—

	1885.	1886.	1887.
Cognizable—
Penal Code	4,132	5,049	6,485
Miscellaneous	13,[illegible]48	19,336	21,566
Non-cognizable—
Penal Code	9,692	8,538	6,566
Miscellaneous	19,999	21,017	20,476
Total ...	47,771	53,940	55,093

The increase in cognizable crime under the Penal Code falls mainly under the head of public and local nuisances. There were 2,646 such cases in 1887 against 1,476 in 1886. The distinction between Penal and Miscellaneous is not strictly accurate, as under the former head are included nuisances punishable under section 34 of Act V of 1861 or under municipal and local laws. The increase in other cognizable cases falls under the heads of miscellaneous offences in the streets, which rose from 9,426 in 1886 to 11,585 in 1887. The decrease in non-cognizable offences under the Penal Code is due to a decrease from 3,622 cases of public and local nuisances in 1886 to 1,683 in 1887. The decrease in other non-cognizable offences is mainly due to the number of cases under the Conservancy Act having fallen from 19,806 in 1886 to 19,200 in 1887. The Commissioner of Police repeats the explanation he gave last year of the large decrease in 1886, continued in 1887, in the number of public nuisances in the Town of Calcutta punishable under Chapter XIV of the Penal Code. They have decreased from 4,625 in 1885 to 3,611 in 1886 and 1,682 in 1887. These offences include the adulteration of food and drugs, the sale of noxious food, and the sale of drugs or medical preparations as different drugs or medical preparations, and public nuisances of all kinds. The Commissioner of Police says the decrease under this head is met by a corresponding increase under section 68A of the Police Act, and that appears to be the reason, as corresponding changes in the figures have occurred in the Suburbs.

2. The number of persons arrested and summoned rose from 54,309 in 1886 to 55,175 in the year under review. The number of persons convicted was 48,334 against 46,818 in 1886, thus giving a larger percentage of convictions for every class of cases, except miscellaneous non-cognizable offences, in which the percentage fell to 82·81 from 83·23 in 1886. Out of a total of 10,859 persons convicted under the Penal Code in the Town and Suburbs, 6,301 were Hindus, 4,164 Mahomedans, 372 Christians, 17 Buddhists and Jains, and 5 Jews.

3. False Cases.—Out of 47,757 cases in the Town, only 119 were reported false. In the Suburbs 63 out of 7,335 cases were returned as false. In the Town, prosecutions were instituted in 31 cases against 17 in 1886. Of those prosecuted, 5 were punished at the instance of the Judge of the Small Cause Court for obtaining decrees on false claims. Three complainants were sentenced each to four years' rigorous imprisonment for arresting and bringing to Calcutta a ryot of the Hooghly district on a warrant obtained from the Chief Magistrate on a false charge of criminal breach of trust, the object being to prevent his appearance in a suit in Hooghly in which his zemindar was respondent. In 19 cases the defendants were sentenced to fine and imprisonment. Only one case was instituted by the Magistrate suo motu. In 53 cases fines were inflicted, and in 42 of these cases the aggrieved parties got compensation under section 552, Criminal Procedure Code. These results are more satisfactory than those of the previous year, when 13 persons only were prosecuted, of whom 11 were acquitted, while there were 130 false cases in 1886 against 119 last year. In the Suburbs, prosecutions were instituted in 61 cases out of 63 reported false. In 45 out of 61 cases the defendants were discharged. In only four cases were the complainants imprisoned, the term of imprisonment varying from one and a half to three months. These results are not satisfactory. Sir Steuart Bayley can scarcely believe that a mere sentence of fine was an adequate punishment in 12 out of the 16 cases in the Suburbs, in which the prosecution was successful.

4. Property stolen and recovered.—The value of the property stolen was Rs. 1,32,351 against Rs. 1,19,249 in 1886. Property to the value of Rs. 68,165 was recovered. The percentage of property recovered, 51·50, differs little from the normal. Only Rs. 1,778, shown as recovered, had been stolen in previous years

5. Ratio of cognizable crime to area and population.—The ratio of cognizable crime to area and population in the Town and Suburbs was as follows :—

	Area in square miles.	Population.	Proportion of true crime to each square mile.	Proportion of crime to population.
Town	... 7·8	433,219	2,967·30	1 to 18·71
Suburbs	... 23	251,439	207·69	1 to 52·63

6. Cognizable crime in the Town.—The following table shows the number of true cognizable cases reported within the Town during the last three years :—

Crime.	1885.	1886.	1887.
Abetment of offence not committed	1	.....	.....
Class I.—Offences against the State, &c. ...	37	43	49
,, II.—Serious offences against the person ...	167	186	213
,, III.—Serious offences against person and property	139	190	185
,, IV.—Minor offences against the person ...	40	50	58
,, V.—Minor offences against person and property	2,156	2,085	2,223
,, VI.—Other offences not specified above ...	1,855	3,419	4,408
Special and local laws	10,391	14,359	16,009
Total ...	14,786	20,332	23,145

There were 25 cases of offences relating to coins and stamps, a larger number than in any other year since 1880. In one case two Hindus were sentenced to five years' imprisonment for manufacturing base coins, and in another two constables of the Suburban Force were sentenced to four years' imprisonment for passing off as silver coin pice covered with quicksilver. There were, as in 1886, only 2 murders against an average of 6 for the last five years. In one case the evidence was insufficient for commitment, and in the other case, in which a discharged servant murdered his master, the jury did not convict, though the accused had confessed to the Coroner. Five Mahomedan shop-keepers of Chandney Bazar assaulted a Eurasian, fracturing his right leg. They were sentenced to three years' rigorous imprisonment each.

There were 164 true cases of house-breaking against 166 in the previous year, none of the former being of a serious type. The police have not succeeded so well as in 1886 in dealing with burglaries and thefts. Only 86 cases under the heads of burglary and lurking house-trespass were detected against 107 in 1886, and 94 persons only were convicted against 123. The Commissioner of Police attributes this want of success to the large body of convicts released at the Jubilee. He supposes that many of the convicts so released remained in Calcutta, and of these men the police would know nothing and would consequently be unable to supervise them effectually. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, observes that the actual number of burglaries committed shows no increase in the Town as might have been expected if the theory were correct. In the Suburbs, however, there were 1,720 cases of theft against 1,607 in 1886, and 786 cases only were detected against 856 in the previous year, while 858 persons were convicted against 950. The percentage of property recovered increased slightly. Under the head of criminal breach of trust, the Commissioner of Police reports that the most systematic offenders are cart-drivers who abscond with entire loads of grain or cloth. Sir Steuart Bayley agrees with him in thinking that if offenders of this class were committed to the Sessions, and not sentenced to short terms of imprisonment by the Presidency Courts, good results might be expected.

The number of convictions under the Hackney Carriage Act decreased slightly. There is nothing to show, though the matter was referred to in last year's Resolution, how many of these prosecutions were for omission to put up the bills of fares inside the carriage. This should be noted in the report for 1888. The increase in public and local nuisances is mainly due to a large number of prosecutions in cases of street obstructions under section 283, Indian Penal Code. There has been a large increase from 7,956 cases in 1886 to 9,744 in 1887 for miscellaneous street offences. There were 2,911 cases of cruelty to animals against 3,389 in 1886, and 59 persons were acquitted against 30 in the previous year. The increase in cases under the Port Acts from 2,266 cases in 1886 to 2,710 in 1887 was chiefly due to a larger number of prosecutions for carrying more than the licensed number of passengers. Under the Opium Act there were 75 cases and 79 convictions, against 42 cases and 44 convictions in 1886. In one case the police seized 30 maunds and 15½ seers of contraband opium. Three persons were severely punished, but the principal offender, for whose arrest a reward has been offered, is said to be still at large. The drug was in its crude state, and was brought from Nepal.

7. Cognizable crime in the Suburbs.—The following is a comparative statement of true cognizable crime during the past three years:—

Crime.		1885.	1886.	1887.
Class I.—Offences against the State, &c.	...	16	27	15
,, II.—Serious offences against the person	...	88	69	77
,, III.— Ditto person and property	...	96	115	171
,, IV.—Minor offences against the person	...	23	35	15
,, V.— Ditto property	...	617	659	709
,, VI.—Other offences not specified above	...	678	787	717
Special and local laws	...	1,450	2,241	3,073
Total	...	2,998	3,925	4,777

There were only five cases of rioting or unlawful assembly against 19 in the preceding year, and 34 persons were sent up against 90 in 1886. There were two murder cases; in both the accused were discharged. There were 29 cases of grievous hurt, against 17 in 1886 and an average of 25 for the five preceding years. In one case, Fakeera Mehter, an ex-convict returned from the Andamans, in a fit of jealousy cut off a portion of the nose of his mistress. One Sumaria Chamarin was sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment for administering strychnine to her husband. The increase under the head of serious mischief and cognate offences from 11 to 39 against a yearly average of 3 is due to a number of prosecutions under section 284, Indian Penal Code (conveying persons for hire by water in a vessel in such a condition and so overloaded as to endanger life). There were 188 true cases of burglary and lurking house-trespass against 125 in 1886. The increase is probably due to the presence of a colony of 11,000 coolies employed in the Kidderpore Docks, and possibly also to the release of Jubilee prisoners. 50 cases were detected and 58 persons convicted. The corresponding figures for 1886 were 49 and 54. Out of Rs. 6,019 worth of property stolen, Rs. 4,094 were recovered, but this is due to the fact that property worth Rs 4,119 was stolen in one case and the greater portion recovered. The number of thefts increased from 454 to 519, but 273 cases were detected and 310 persons convicted, against 246 cases and 297 persons in 1886. There was a slight decrease in the number of cases of public and local nuisances, while miscellaneous offences on the other hand rose from 1,470 to 1,841. The number of cases of cruelty to animals rose from 759 to 1,201, and out of 1,466 persons sent up for trial only 8 were acquitted.

8. Non-cognizable crime in the Town.—The decrease from 26,759 cases in 1886 to 24,511 in 1887 is principally due to a smaller number of cases of public and local nuisances, namely, 1,682 against 3,611 in 1886. This is met by a corresponding increase in the number of cognizable cases under section 68A of the Police Act. There were only 18,252 cases under the Conservancy Act against 18,816 in 1886. The number of cases of rioting, unlawful assembly, and affray rose from 205 in 1886 to 245 in 1887. There were 26 cases of adulteration of food and ghee, and 32 persons were convicted against 2 in 1886. A case instituted against one Taruck Nath Pattuck, to whom a forged currency note was traced, was withdrawn at the High Court, as the evidence of guilty knowledge was not considered sufficient. The forger, who lived at Sulkea, was tried at Howrah and ultimately convicted by the High Court.

9. Non-cognizable crime in the Suburbs.—There was a slight decrease from 2,796 cases in 1886 to 2,530 cases in 1887. There is nothing calling for notice in the figures.

10. Suicides.—There were 65 cases in the Town and Suburbs against 71 in 1886. 41 per cent. of the persons who committed suicide killed themselves by taking opium, while 32 per cent. hung themselves. There were 49 Hindus, 9 Mahomedans, and 7 Europeans. The excess of Hindus is remarkable, as the proportion of Hindus to Mahomedans living in the Town and Suburbs is little more than two to one.

11. Accidental deaths.—There were 283 accidental deaths against 275 in 1886. Only 89 were drowned against 111 in the previous year; but there were 133 deaths from causes not specified, against 91 the year before. 28 deaths were due to the persons killed being run over by carriages and horses, and 29 to falls from trees or buildings. Prosecutions were instituted against the drivers in 4 of these cases, 3 against private individuals, and 1 against the driver of a tramcar, who was acquitted. 4 servants of the Tramway Company were prosecuted for rash driving; 1 was convicted, 2 were acquitted, and 1 was still under trial at the close of the year. 133 drivers of public and private carriages were convicted for rash and furious driving out of 162 sent up for trial.

12. Arms Act.—The importation of fire-arms increased from 1,205 in 1886 to 1,616 in 1887. The Commissioner of Police attributes the increase to a belief on the part of importers that there would be a great demand owing to events in Burmah. There was a great decrease in the inland transport of arms and ammunition. In guns the number fell from 1,408 to 848. The decrease, as explained by the Commissioner, was mainly in the traffic with Northern India, which had been abnormally large in 1886. The number of cartridge cases imported rose from 357,900 in 1886 to 738,700 in the year under review. No explanation is given of this. The number of guns sold in Calcutta was 2,415 against 2,962 in 1886. This included 1,501 guns of native manufacture against 2,207 in 1886. There were 20 prosecutions, all for petty offences.

13. European Vagrancy Act.—42 persons were admitted to the Workhouse under section 5 of the Act Three persons were deported under section 17, namely, 2 to Liverpool and 1 to Melbourne. One of these was a ship's steward, another a hotel-keeper, and the third a destitute female with three children.

14. Fire-Brigade Act.—There were 13 fires in the Town and on the River, 5 in the Suburbs, and 20 in Howrah. The damage done is estimated at Rs. 67,355 against Rs. 1,75,750 in 1886. The most serious fire was on board the Hutton Hall, in which jute worth Rs. 23,000 was burnt. The Chief Officer was afterwards sentenced to one month's rigorous imprisonment for smoking in the hold, to which the Chief Presidency Magistrate attributed the fire.

15. Strength and cost of the Police.—The total cost of the Town Police was Rs. 4,72,168 against Rs. 4,74,544 in 1886, and that of the Suburban Police Rs. 1,55,676 against Rs. 1,62,187. The cost of the River Police was Rs. 29,974, of Government Guards Rs. 45,140, and of Additional Police Rs. 30,655. The Fort Police, Lock-up Guards, and Salt-Pass Stations cost Rs. 13,094.

The cost of the Town Police was met as follows :—

	Rs.
Paid by Calcutta Municipality	2,97,216
Government contribution	99,072
Fees and fines	75,880
Total ...	4,72,168

The diminished expenditure on the Town and Suburban Police was chiefly made up of savings under the heads of servants, rent, contingent charges and allowances. Hospital expenses increased from Rs. 16,475 to Rs. 18,748 owing to increased diet and clothing expenses. It should have been stated whether this was due to a larger average number of patients being treated in hospital, or to other causes. The number of admissions only rose from 2,222 to 2,327, which would not by itself account for the increased expenditure.

16. The Police Force.—The number of up-country men in the police rose from 1,907 in 1886 to 1,942, while the number of Bengalis fell to 163 from 189 in 1886 and 219 in 1885. Out of this total of 163 there are 72 officers, while the total number of officers who are up-country men is 96. The percentage of casualties was 12·15, or almost the same as in the previous year. 34 members of the force were punished judicially against 13 in 1886 ; on the other hand, 78 men only were dismissed against 102 the year before. Only 5 men deserted. The mortality fell from 9·39 to 8·08, but this only shows the number dying in hospital ; many go away on sick leave and die at their homes. The number of vacancies was 361 against 375 in 1886 and an average of 478 in the five preceding years. This is satisfactory as testifying to the good conduct of the force, as the decrease occurred chiefly under the heads of dismissals and discharges. The fact that the number of resignations rose from 123 to 167 shows that the difficulty of getting new hands to stay, noted in last year's Resolution, has not been overcome.

17. During the year, 345 certificates were granted for hotels, shops for the sale of exciseable articles, and native eating-houses, in the Town, and 188 in the Suburbs. The fees came to Rs. 1,266 in the Town and Rs. 460 in the Suburbs. The figures cannot be compared with those of 1886, as it is not stated how many of these were licenses for liquor shops issued under the triennial system in 1884 and renewed last year. The police had no difficulty in maintaining order in all shops licensed under the Abkari Act. Property to the value of Rs. 11,968 was picked up and brought to the Police Office, and 93 per cent. of the amount was restored to the owners. Rupees 5,150 were disbursed as rewards against Rs. 2,377 in 1886. Private individuals paid Rs. 2,798, while they only gave Rs. 351 the year before. Some explanation should have been given of this large increase.

18. Old offenders.—275 old offenders were convicted. Of these 63 had been convicted more than three times. In the Suburbs the corresponding numbers were 45 and 5. On their release from jail 133 notorious offenders were photographed and their names were registered by the Detective Department.

19. Judicial work.—15,685 cases were instituted in the Northern Division, 10,615 in the Southern Division, and 19,610 before the Bench of Presidency Magistrates. The corresponding figures for 1886 were 13,583, 11,865, and 19,903. Of 34,713 persons appearing before the Courts, 32,123 were convicted and 2,427 acquitted. The ratio of conviction in cognizable cases was 95·01 in the Northern Court, 93·46 in the Southern Court, and only 56·33 in the Bench Courts; the corresponding figures in non-cognizable cases (excluding conservancy prosecutions) being 70·92, 71·88 and 46·25 respectively. The total amount of fines imposed in the Southern Division was Rs. 26,354-4-9, of which Rs. 23,796-4-9 was realised; the corresponding figures in the Northern Division were Rs. 28,544-9 and Rs. 26,361-11. Sentences of whipping were passed on 55 persons, and 13 juvenile offenders were sent to the Alipore Reformatory. The fines imposed by the Presiding Benches rose from Rs. 19,909 to Rs. 29,539 notwithstanding a perceptible decrease in the number of cases.

20. Benches.—The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to see that the Chief Magistrate has again had to notice the want of punctuality and absence without notice of some of the Honorary Magistrates. The practice of rising early in the day without finishing the day's file is particularly to be deprecated. Sir Steuart Bayley at the same time notes with satisfaction the Chief Magistrate's testimony to the alacrity with which some Honorary Magistrates have attended Court at a moment's notice to fill the place of an absent colleague. The list of attendance shows that 17 gentlemen have attended twice a month or oftener, and he desires to thank them for the assistance they have rendered in the disposal of cases. The Lieutenant-Governor has had various questions connected with the working of the system of Benches under consideration during the year, and a set of rules, which it is hoped will materially increase its efficiency, has been submitted by the Chief Presidency Magistrate, and is now being dealt with

21. Personnel of the force.—Sir H. Harrison was Commissioner throughout the year, while the office of the Deputy Commissioner was held successively by Colonel A. R. Wilkinson, Mr. A. B. Barnard, and Mr. J Lambert, C I E. The names of the Superintendents and other subordinate officers favourably mentioned have been noted.

The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to all these officers, especially to Messrs. Barnard and Lambert, whose work has fallen within the period of Sir Steuart Bayley's Lieutenant-Governorship, and therefore under his immediate cognizance.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of this Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for information and for communication to the Presidency Magistrates, and to the Commissioner of the Presidency Division for information.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. WARE EDGAR,
Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE LUNATIC ASYLUM IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1887.

RESOLUTION.

MEDICAL.

Dated Darjeeling, the 5th July 1888.

READ—

The Report on the Lunatic Asylums in Bengal for the year 1887.

The Report for the year 1886, and the Resolution recorded on it.

The report, which is due on the 1st May, was not submitted till the 21st. This is an improvement on last year's, which was not received till the 1st July; but there does not seem to be any reason why it should not be submitted on or before the date on which it is due.

2. The number of admissions into the asylums fell from 200 in 1886 to 168. Of these, 144 were males and 24 females. The number of re-admissions was 13 against 18 in the previous year. The total number of persons treated for insanity was 1,137 as compared with 1,173 in the previous year, and the daily average population of the asylums was 943·11 against 963·9 in 1886. Of those under treatment, 88 were discharged cured, 39 were transferred to the care of friends, 86 died, and 2 were otherwise disposed of. The percentage of recoveries on the average strength was 9·33 against 9·02 in the previous year. 922 lunatics remained in the asylum at the close of the year, of whom 729 were males and 193 females.

3. The number of criminal lunatics, which had risen considerably in 1886, has fallen off slightly, the figures being 384 on the 31st December 1887 against 397 on the same date of the preceding year. There were 80 new admissions during the year against 81 in 1886, of whom 73 were males and 7 females. The daily average strength was 390·88; 75 persons were discharged or transferred, and 28 died.

For the last few years the number of criminal lunatics has increased in all the asylums in Bengal. The question also of the conditions under which it becomes safe to release a criminal lunatic appeared to the Lieutenant-Governor to be in a very unsatisfactory state, detention in many cases continuing longer than seems necessary for the public safety, and much difference of opinion, with consequent friction, being brought to the notice of Government. With a view to remedy these evils, a Committee was appointed to consider and submit definite proposals as to how such cases were to be dealt with in future. Special reference was made to the system of appointing recovered lunatics to the posts of paid warders in jails. The report of the Committee has been received, and is now under the consideration of Government.

4. The nomenclature of diseases, which has recently been published by the Royal College of Physicians, will have the effect of removing to some extent the difficulty hitherto experienced in classification. During the year 116 persons have been shown as suffering under the head of mania, 32 under melancholia, 16 under dementia, 3 under epileptic insanity, and 5 under toxic insanity. In 439 cases the disease is attributed to physical causes, and in 132 to moral causes. Of the former, 247 cases are said to be due to ganja, 4 to bhang and charas, 54 to spirit, 7 to opium, 25 to fever, 41 to heredity, 27 to epilepsy and 34 to other causes. Of the 132 cases attributed to moral causes, 89 were due to grief, 9 to fear, 13 to jealousy and 21 to other causes. The above figures point to the conclusion that indulgence in ganja is the most potent factor in the production of insanity in these Provinces. The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, however, remarks that in this country causes of insanity are involved in much obscurity, and are often unascertainable.

5. The health of the lunatics has been fairly good except in the Dullunda and Berhampore Asylums. At Dullunda the daily average number of sick was 12·89 against 7·65 in the previous year, while in Berhampore the average was 7·33 against 3·09. The sick list of the Dullunda Asylum is said to have swollen by an epidemic of chicken-pox and by the prevalence of fever. At Berhampore bowel-complaints and fever were more than usually common. The diseases most prevalent in the asylums were anæmia and debility, diarrhœa, dysentery, fever, pneumonia and phthisis. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to find that there was no epidemic visitation of cholera in any of the asylums, although the disease was more or less prevalent in the towns where the asylums are situated. There were 86 deaths against 85 in 1886. This gives an annual death-rate of 9·11 per cent., which only slightly exceeds that of the asylums in England.

6. There is a somewhat long catalogue of cases of injury. In the Dullunda Asylum one criminal lunatic killed another by striking him with an iron chopper while engaged in the kitchen. Another lunatic was severely injured by a warder. At Dacca there were three cases of injuries of trivial character. There was one case of suicide at Cuttack, and two at Berhampore. One lunatic escaped from the Patna Asylum. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that steps will be taken to guard, as far as possible, against the recurrence of such cases.

7. This year again the number of male lunatics confined in the Dacca and Cuttack Asylums was in excess of the accommodation provided for them. At Dullunda the space allotted for female lunatics has been found insufficient for the number of patients admitted. The sanction of Government has been accorded to the conversion of the jail hospital building at Dacca into an asylum for female lunatics, and to certain additions and alterations in the asylum buildings at Cuttack. It is hoped that the orders under which fewer districts are in future to send patients to Dullunda will afford sufficient relief. There is not a sufficient number of separate cells in the Dacca female asylum, but the defect is now being remedied. The Lieutenant Governor agrees with the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals that the practice in some asylums of allowing harmless patients to sleep in the verandahs is objectionable, and he is requested to report whether, on the additional accommodation which it is proposed to provide being completed, this will any longer be necessary.

8. The following table shows the receipts and expenditure in each asylum during the year 1887 :—

9. The total expenditure on the asylums during the year was Rs. 78,996-11-4 against Rs. 88,109-11-7 in 1886. The reduction of Rs. 9,113-0-3 is due partly to the diminution in the Public Works charges, and partly to the saving effected in the cost of diet. The average cost for each patient was Rs. 83-12-2 against Rs. 91-6-6 in the previous year. Dullunda continues to be the most costly of all the asylums. The total expenditure on diet amounted to Rs. 19,137 against Rs. 22,061 in 1886, thus showing a reduction of Rs. 2,924, due partly to the smaller number of lunatics dieted, and partly to the reduction in the price of food-supplies. The value of articles of diet supplied from the manufacturing departments amounted to Rs. 10,694 against Rs. 11,160 the year before. The cost of establishment was Rs. 20,008, and of superintendence Rs. 18,704.

The corresponding figures in 1886 were Rs. 20,061 and Rs. 18,401. The cost of clothing and bedding was Rs. 908 against Rs. 832, and the expenditure on account of manufactures amounted to Rs. 24,703 against Rs. 22,791 in 1886.

10. The number of patients in the European Asylum at Bhowanipore, at the beginning of the year, was 29, of whom 15 were males and 14 females. During the year 21 persons were admitted and 3 re-admitted, making a total of 53 patients; of these 8 were discharged cured, 2 were made over to military authorities, 2 were despatched to Europe under the Merchant Shipping Act, 4 were transferred to the care of friends, 2 were deported to Europe as still insane, and 4 died, leaving 31 patients in the asylum at the close of the year. The daily average number was 29 against 31 in 1886. The causes of insanity were chiefly intemperance, heredity and epilepsy. The death-rate in the asylum was 13·79 against 6·45 in 1886, but it is impossible to draw any conclusions from figures relating to so small an average population. The total expenditure amounted to Rs. 20,709 against Rs. 20,271 in 1886, and the average yearly cost of each lunatic was Rs. 714 against Rs. 654 in the previous year. The receipts from paying patients amounted to Rs. 8,115 against Rs. 6,722 the year before.

11. The sanitary condition of the asylum has been much improved by filling up an offensive drain on the western side of the building, and substituting a shallow saucer-drain of pucca masonry.

12. The management of all the asylums appears to have been efficiently conducted, and the members of the subordinate staff are all well spoken of by their immediate superiors.

The Committee notice with great pleasure the fact that since the last Exhibition of Native Arts and Industries was held under the Presidency of the late Governor, Sir James Fergusson, Bart., K.C.S.I., in 1883, the subject of the development of Native Arts and Manufactures has engaged the serious attention of both the Government and the people. The encouragement of native arts and indigenous manufactures is looked upon not only as an administrative necessity in the interests of economy, but also as an essential accompaniment to the practical development of the enlightened policy of satisfying the educational requirements of all the sections of the populations. The Poona Museum and Exhibition Committee propose to hold an Exhibition in or about October 1888, and hope to make it a greater success than those held before both from the educational and practical point of view. The Exhibition of this year is intended to serve a double purpose—to give encouragement to indigenous industries by bringing together to the notice of the general public such articles of native manufacture as are produced in the different parts of this country, and to secure the largest collection of exhibits that are likely to be both interesting and instructive to the hundreds of artizans and merchants engaged in the leading industries of these provinces.

It would, in the very nature of the thing, be very difficult to carry out these objects with ut a representative and influential Committee organized for the purpose. It is a hopeful sign that such a Committee has been formed with His Excellency the Right Hon'ble Lord Reay, LL.D., G.C.I.E., as the Patron and the three Divisional Commissioners and Dr. Cooke, Prof. Scorgje among the Members. The formation of this Committee is by itself a circumstance of great encouragement, and the Committee now venture to publish this prospectus for the information of the general public, without whose co-operation and sympathy it would be difficult to carry any such undertaking to a successful termination. It may here be stated for general information that although the Exhibition is not limited to articles of any special class, the Committee would like to receive typical samples of Sind pottery, Shikarpur and other Sind embroidery, Hyderabad lacquerware, Cutch silverware, cotton prints, &c., Ahmedabad wood carving, brass jali work and kincops, Broach and Surat cottons and silks, Bombay inlaid work and carved furniture, Nasik and Poona brasswork, Yeola silks, Vijayadoorg hornware, Karwar carved woodware, Savantwadi paintings, &c., &c. The Committee hopes to secure the best exhibits of typical industries in the other provinces, so that the skill and workmanship displayed in these samples may be useful as models to the manufacturers of our Presidency. As far as funds permit, prizes will be awarded to the best exhibits of each class.

It has been suggested that an Exhibition of improved tools and machines used in the several manufactures would go to materially assist in the improvement of native methods of manufacturing the different articles of trade, and endeavours are being made to induce manufacturers of machines and machine tools, hand tools, &c., to exhibit their articles. Should these endeavours be successful, a separate section will be added to the Exhibition. Much depends upon the pecuniary help which the Committee would receive from Government and from the rulers of Native States, as also from the Municipalities, Mercantile Associations and the general public, and the Committee trust that the undertaking will not fail for want of pecuniary support.

Intending Exhibitors are requested to fill in the accompanying form and send it with the exhibits under a separate cover. Exhibits must reach the Secretaries on or before the 31st August 1888. Space cannot be guaranteed to articles received after that date.

It may be stated here for the information of gentlemen having in their private collections beautiful specimens of articles exhibiting rare skill and workmanship that the Committee is prepared to receive their articles on loan, and undertakes that special care will be bestowed in exhibiting them and returning them safe to their owners within a reasonable time after the close of the Exhibition.

The exact day on which the Exhibition will be opened will be duly published hereafter.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·5° higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, DURING THE MONTH OF JUNE 1888.

THE month of June is, from a meteorological point of view, almost the most important month of the whole year in Bengal, for it is in this month that the south-west monsoon usually establishes itself over the province, and generally over the greater part of Northern India. The cause of the setting in of the rains at the beginning of June has been discussed in the monthly reports of previous years, and it is therefore not necessary to repeat this description. It has also been pointed out that the rainfall in the south-west monsoon is not due to a perfectly steady and continuous action, but that it occurs rather as a series of waves or pulsations, a strong wave of rainfall being followed by a period of comparative calm and absence of rainfall, and it is during the latter that frequently small barometric depressions or cyclonic storms are formed, generally over the sea area, and which, after developing for a few days, advance over the land, bringing heavy rainfall to the districts through which they pass. With reference to these storms, it may also be said that the longer the period during which they are forming, the more intense they will be. So far also as has been ascertained up to the present time, it would appear that, during a comparatively weak monsoon, the periods of comparative cessation of rainfall are more frequent and are of longer duration than during a monsoon of normal strength, and thus weak monsoons are frequently characterized by the number and comparative intensity of the cyclonic storms or barometric depressions which visit the land, while during years when the monsoon is equal to or above its normal strength, these storms occur but seldom, and they are of little intensity.

The distribution of the normal rainfall in June is to a certain extent similar to that of April and May, but much heavier. The lines of equal rainfall run nearly north and south through the province, the heaviest falls occurring in east and parts of North Bengal, and the smallest in the western parts of Behar. In the former districts rainfall varies from 25 to 35 inches, while at Buxar it is less than 5 inches.

The most important meteorological features of June are, therefore, the date of the commencement of the south-west monsoon, its strength, the area over which it acts, the occurrence and paths of cyclonic storms, and the amount and distribution of the rainfall.

Meteorology of the month and establishment of the monsoon.—In the meteorological report for May the progress of the monsoon current during that month was described. A first advance of the monsoon winds in the south of the Bay had taken place about the 8th or 9th of that month, and in front of this advance a small cyclonic storm had formed which crossed the South Madras coast. The advance then died away, not having progressed very far up the Bay. The second advance commenced about the 17th and lasted only for four or five days, and it would appear that in this advance the monsoon winds reached about the centre of the Bay, when they again died away. The third advance of the monsoon current commenced in the south of the Bay on the 27th, and from the 28th exceptionally strong winds were reported at the Ceylon stations which continued up till the 1st of June. This represented a very powerful advance of the monsoon current, and it is probable that squally unsettled weather obtained over the whole of the centre and south of the Bay at this time. On June 1st the advance had reached well into the centre of the Bay, and there were no indications of any definite storm having formed in front of the advance. On the 2nd of June, however, there was a decided fall of pressure at the central stations on the east coast of the Bay, while wind directions showed rather strong indraught towards the sea area. It was clear on this day that a small cyclonic storm was forming to the north-west of the Andaman Islands. On the morning of the 3rd the small storm had developed somewhat rapidly, and it existed as a well-defined, though rather small, storm off the West Pegu coast. On this day weather was probably rather stormy to the east of the centre of the Bay, and strong winds were reported in Burma at the stations of Diamond Island and Bassein. The small storm then commenced to move in a north-westerly direction, and on the 4th of June it was in the centre of the Bay, and apparently advancing towards the Orissa coast. On this day also it is probable that the storm was of moderate intensity, though there were indications that it was even then of less intensity than it had been on the previous day. The special four-hourly observations made at some of the principal stations at the head of the Bay showed that from 8 A.M. of the 4th, and particularly during the night of this day, the storm gradually became more and more feeble, till, on approaching the coast on the morning of the 5th, it had ceased to exist as a definite storm, and its place was taken by a diffused disturbance of little importance, which gradually drifted over Orissa and the head of the Bay, giving moderate rain only. On the 6th, pressure continued to fall over South-West Bengal and Orissa, owing probably to the continued feeble existence of the depression, but after this date it disappeared, and ceased to affect the weather of the province. With its disappearance a moderately strong south-easterly current set in over the greater part of the province, and moderate rain fell in all districts except South Behar and Chutia Nagpur; but the true rains cannot be said to have commenced at this time in Bengal, for the rainfall brought up by the moist wind current blowing generally accompanied local storms; and though south-easterly and easterly winds were reported over a large part of the province, still dry north-westerly and westerly winds were blowing at the western stations in Behar and Chutia Nagpur. By the actions above described, however, fairly frequent rain showers were received in all districts of the province, except in parts of Chutia Nagpur and South Behar, and these continued up till about the 9th or 10th of the month.

Up to this period all the meteorological indications pointed to the early commencement of the rains in Northern India, and in normal years the next advance of the monsoon current would probably have carried the rain-bearing current over the greater part of Bengal; but though strong winds continued to be reported in the south of the Bay, particularly for some days from about the 6th, again from the 17th and from the 21st, indicating that there were successive waves of strong monsoon winds passing up the Bay, yet rainfall remained practically almost absent from the whole of Bengal up till the 27th to the 29th of the month. The cause of this almost complete stoppage of the progress of the rain-bearing current up the Bay towards Bengal is a little difficult to trace out from the fact that the most important information in deciding the matter would be the meteorological data of the sea area over which the monsoon has to pass, and which is, from the nature of the case, almost impossible to procure, though perhaps later on some information may be able to be obtained from the logs of the various vessels navigating the Bay. So far as the information at the disposal of the Meteorological Department can prove the case, that is, on the information derived only from the stations on the coasts of the Bay, it would appear that the cause of the stoppage of the rain-bearing current, or rather its deflection from Bengal, was that indicated in the report for the week ending June 22nd, namely, that there must have been a feeble but persistent area of low pressure with disturbed conditions generally existing off the Arakan and West Pegu coasts. That such an area, or perhaps even a depression, did probably exist was indicated by the wind directions at the stations on these coasts, and by the continued and repeated indications of the formation of an extremely feeble but persistent whirl over the sea area in the eastern part of the Bay. By this tendency to wind circulation it would appear that the monsoon current blowing to the south of it was deflected in an easterly direction, and hence made itself principally felt over Burma and afterwards over Assam, and thus for the period from the 10th up to about the 27th of the month, while almost the whole of Bengal, except parts of North Bengal, received no general rain such as is usual in June, particularly heavy rain fell over Burma and Assam. Thus in the week ending the 29th of June, Dhubri received the extremely heavy fall of 26·06 inches, while falls of more than ten inches in a week were reported in several cases in these districts. At the same time also it is probable that, owing to the influence of these disturbed conditions in the Bay, a much larger amount of rain fell over the sea area than is the case usually during the monsoon period, thus diminishing generally the heaviness of the rainfall over the land.

Though the greater part of Bengal during the period from the 10th to the 27th received little or no rain, the area receiving rainfall was, however, gradually extending, and moderate to heavy rain was received from about the 21st in the Rungpore, Julpigoree, Cooch Behar and Darjeeling districts of North Bengal. A slight advance of humid winds also took place on the 22nd in the western districts, as was shown by the rapid increase in the humidity in Behar, and moderate rainfall, apparently to a great extent brought about by a series of local storms, was reported on the 23rd from all the districts of South-West Bengal, except Midnapore and Moorshedabad. On the following day the area of rainfall contracted, and except at some of the stations in East and North Bengal, rainfall was practically absent from the province, and again ordinary hot weather conditions obtained over the greater part of Bengal. On the 25th and 26th, weather conditions had not changed to any material extent, except that there were slightly more favourable indications of the probabilty of the monsoon drifting over Bengal; but on the 27th a rapid and important change took place. On this day it almost appeared as if there had been a decided increase in the strength of the Bombay branch of the monsoon current; pressure rose rapidly in the western and central districts, and a south-westerly wind current set in at many of the stations in the centre and north of the province; and even at Darjeeling a strong south-westerly wind, averaging 21 miles an hour, was reported. With this sudden inrush of winds considerable interaction took place, and thunderstorms became numerous in the south of the province. On about the same day also the Bay of Bengal monsoon current commenced to spread over South-East Bengal, and it has since that day steadily advanced over the whole province, and from the 27th to the 29th considerable amounts of rain were received. In South-West and East Bengal the general rainfall commenced on the 27th, and over a large part of North Bengal it began from about the 28th, except in the districts previously mentioned, viz., Rungpore, Julpigoree, Cooch Behar and Darjeeling, where rain had been reported previously. In North Behar and Chutia Nagpur also rainfall generally commenced about the 28th; in South Behar rainfall began on the 29th and 30th; and finally, in Orissa rainfall was light and irregular until the close of the month. The monsoon rains may therefore be said to have only broken in the province from about the 27th to the 29th, and as the usual date of commencement is from the 10th to the 15th, or, say, the 12th June, the rains have been quite a fortnight late in setting in; but even up to the close of the month the rains, except in parts of North Bengal, were by no means heavy.

It has previously been stated that the delay in the advance of the monsoon current over Bengal, so far as could be judged, was probably due to the existence of disturbed conditions off the West Pegu and Arakan coasts, and that there were also distinct indications of the continued existence of a feeble low-pressure area in that locality. With the setting in of the rains in Bengal, the whole of the indications referred to completely disappeared, and conditions became normal in the Bay. But with the disappearance of these conditions in the Bay, a feeble but distinct tendency to the formation of a low-pressure area commenced in South and South-West Bengal. The appearance of this tendency to low pressure and consequent cyclonic circulation of winds in South Bengal simultaneously with the disappearance of these conditions in the Bay, may have been merely a coincidence, or it may be they were directly connected with each other; but perhaps the latter is more probable, though the evidence available is not sufficient to prove any distinct connection between the two, or to prove the transfer of the disturbance from the one area to the other.

Strength of the monsoon.—The monsoon current may vary in two ways and its strength will depend on the two considerations of its velocity, and the depth or thickness of the current. No means are available for measuring the depth of the current, so that, in judging of the strength of the monsoon current from year to year, only its velocity can be measured and compared. The velocity can be measured accurately, but it will be seen that this alone can give only a rough approximation to truth. In the table below are given the actual daily velocity of the winds for June compared with the average for the same period at all the stations near the coast, from Diamond Island round to Gopalpore, at which winds have been registered for a sufficient length of time to give a reliable average:—

Stations.	Actual average wind velocity for June 1888. Miles per day.	Normal wind velocity in June. Miles per day.	Variation of actual for June 1888 from normal.
Diamond Island	223	204·8	+8·2
Akyab	94·4	94·0	—0·4
Chittagong	115·2	167·3	—52·1
Dacca	142·4	173·6	—31·2
Jessore	105·6	119·7	—14·1
Calcutta	152 0	145·7	+6·3
Saugor Island	458·4	341·7	+116·7
Cuttack	112·9	95 7	+17·2
False Point	323·3	264·0	+59·3
Gopalpore	390·4	266 1	+124·3

Out of the ten stations representing the coast line of practically the whole of the province, four stations show a wind velocity below the normal, and six show velocities above the normal; but the excess amounts are not only registered at the larger number of stations, but are in themselves much larger than the defects. Another interesting point is that the defects have been registered at the stations in the east and north-east of the Bay only, that is, in connection with the area where the disturbed conditions existed which prevented the monsoon from advancing over Bengal in a normal manner. Judged by the above figures, it would appear probable that the strength of the monsoon is quite equal to, if not above, the average of most years, for the wind movement during the month has been actually decidedly greater than in normal years, and thus the absence of rainfall can only be accounted for by the fact that the current was deflected from Bengal. It would therefore appear probable that when the cause of this deflection has become removed, it may be expected that the monsoon rains will be subsequently of normal heaviness.

Pressure.—For the first week in the month, owing to the advance of the feeble depression over the south-western districts of the province, pressure was decidedly below the normal; the defect equalling 0·04 inch over these districts, though the general pressure for the province was only in defect by 0·019 inch. In the second week the defect had increased very considerably, and thus, while at the southern stations pressure was nearly a tenth of an inch below the normal, the general defect was 0·064 inch. In the third week this defect remained practically unaltered, but in the fourth week the average pressure became normal, though the general distribution was a little anomalous; and in the eastern and western districts pressure was above the normal, and at the central stations it was below it, the defect being partly due to the existence of the low-pressure area, above referred to, over South Bengal. For the whole month, taking into consideration only those stations which have recorded observations for a series of years, and which therefore yield reliable data for averages, the mean pressure in the whole province of Bengal has been 0·024 inch below the normal. At almost all stations pressures have been in defect, and at Calcutta and Gya the defects have equalled about 0·04 inch. In Assam the mean pressure for the month has been 0·048 inch in defect of the normal.

Temperature.—The records of temperature during the past month have been of most exceptional nature, and owing to the absence of general rainfall from about the 10th to the 27th, and in some cases up to the 29th June, the temperatures registered at some stations have been higher than any previously recorded since the Meteorological Department was established. For the first week in the month the temperatures recorded were not very far removed from the normal, but in the second week temperature commenced to rise, and a period of unusual heat set in. The temperature generally was highest on Thursday, the 14th, and the mean temperature of the 24 hours from 10 A.M. of the 14th to 10 A.M. of the 15th was above the normal of the day by the following amounts: at Balasore 16·1°, at Midnapore 13·9°, at Calcutta 10·5°, and at Burdwan 10·1°. The maximum temperature recorded at the Alipore Observatory (Calcutta) on the 14th was 106·8°. The highest previously recorded temperature since the establishment of the observatory in 1874 has been 105·6° on April 14th, 1884, the next highest was 105·5° on April 15th, 1885, so that the temperature on this day was certainly 1·2° higher than any in Calcutta of which there are thoroughly reliable records, or rather records comparable with those made at the present time. A higher temperature than this even was recorded on this day, the 14th of June 1888, at the Chowringhee Observatory, when the maximum thermometer indicated no less than 107·2°. The temperatures at the Chowringhee Observatory may perhaps be fairly accurately compared with the records of temperature which were formerly taken at the Surveyor-General's Office, and, so far as can be ascertained, the highest temperature previously recorded either at the Chowringhee Observatory or at the Survey Office as far back as 1854 has been 106°. Therefore both the records at the Alipore and Chowringhee Observatories prove that the temperature on the 14th June in Calcutta was about 1·2° to 1·3°higher than previously recorded by accurate observations. Very high maximum temperatures were also recorded at other stations:—thus Dehree registered 114·5° on the 14th, Gya 113·6° on the 14th, Balasore 113° on the 15th, Midnapore 112·4° on the 14th, and several other stations temperatures above 110°. The extreme heat is also shown by the fact that the mean temperature for the second week of June was nearly 4° in excess of the normal in Chutia Nagpur, Orissa, and South-West Bengal, and about 2° above it in East Bengal and South Behar.

The conditions of excessive temperature were again strongly marked in the third week, and during this period in Chutia Nagpur the average mean temperature was no less than 13·2° in excess of the normal temperature. in South Behar the excess equalled 10°, in South-West Bengal 7·7°, and in Orissa 6·2°. In the fourth week again Chutia Nagpur showed an excess of 10·2°, South Behar one of 7·9°, and South-West Bengal 5°. It will be seen that for the greater part of the month the temperature of all the western districts has been largely in excess of the normal. The mean temperature of the whole month has thus been nearly nine degrees in excess of the normal in Chutia Nagpur, and about five degrees above it in Orissa, South-West Bengal, and South Behar. In East Bengal temperature has also been in excess, but by only 1·8°, and in North Bengal and North Behar temperature has been almost normal. In Assam, on the other hand, the mean temperature for the month has been slightly below the normal.

Rainfall.—The date of the establishment of the monsoon, and the cause of its considerable delay, so that it was nearly a fortnight late, have already been discussed, and it therefore only remains to discuss the actual amount of rainfall which has been received. It need scarcely be stated that rainfall has been largely in defect in all districts or meteorological divisions, and the amounts of the defective falls vary from about eight and a half inches in East Bengal to nearly four inches in North Behar. Compared with the normal fall for June, and expressed as a percentage of that amount, the actual fall over the whole province has been only forty-eight per cent. of the usual amount.

The comparison of the various great divisions of the province during June with the normal is most accurately shown in the form of a percentage. The figures representing the rainfall of the month calculated in this way are included in the table below under the head of June. This table really gives a condensed summary of the rainfall statistics of the present year up to date for each meteorological division, the first six columns giving the actual rainfalls in each month in each division expressed as a percentage of the normal, while the seventh column of figures shows the actual divisional rainfall of the first six months of the year calculated in the same manner; the figure 100 will therefore represent a normal fall, above it excess, and below it defect. Judged by these figures, it will be seen that the rainfall during the past month has only been about a third of the normal in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar; while in South-West Bengal and East Bengal it has been little more than half the normal, and in North Bengal and North Behar it has been nearly two-thirds of it. The rainfall of the year has also been below the normal in all districts, the defect equalling about ten to fifteen per cent. in East and North Bengal and North Behar, and about twenty-five per cent. in South-West Bengal; in Orissa the defect has been nearly forty per cent., and in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur it is from fifty to sixty per cent:—

The actual rainfalls during the month have varied from above 40 inches at some of the stations in the Western Duars to less than one inch at Kooshtea, and over a considerable area in the Gya and Shahabad districts, represented by such stations as Arrah, Shergati, and Pakri Barawan. The distribution of the actual rainfall for the month has been to a certain extent similar to that of ordinary years, and the heaviest falls have occurred in the north-east and east of the province, and the rainfall gradually diminishes in amount towards the western districts of Behar and Chutia Nagpur.

In fact, when compared with the normal, one or two small areas have actually received falls in excess, and thus in North Bengal there is a small tract represented by Kurigram and Dinhatta, where falls 5 inches in excess of the normal have been received, while Julpigoree has also received an excess fall. Again in East Bengal there is a small area represented by Brahmunberiah, Naraingunge and Kishoregunge, where the falls have been also in slight excess. And in other districts, Mozufferpore, Raneegunge, Baraset and Hooghly also show slight excess falls. On the other hand, the greater part of the province shows a defect exceeding three inches of rain, and over a large area defects exceeding five and even ten inches are common; while in Darjeeling the defect has been 15·49 inches, and at Cox's Bazar no less than 20·79 inches

Where the general defect of rainfall over the province averages as much as fifty-two per cent. of the normal, it is useless to attempt to indicate the particular districts where the defects have been seriously large, for almost the whole province would be included under this head On the other hand, when taking up the rainfall in each of the smaller districts, there have been some of them which have received fairly good falls, and thus in the Burdwan, Julpigoree, Cooch Behar and Chumparun districts the falls have been nearly equal to the normal for the month.

In Assam, as has already been stated, heavy rainfall has been received during June, and thus at Dhubri no less than 42·76 inches have been received, at Silchar 28·46 inches, and at Sibsagar 13·52 inches.

The following table gives full data for the comparision of the actual and the normal rainfall of the month of June in all districts of the province of Bengal. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 15 years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage. The fourth column gives the same information as the third column in a slightly different form. It states as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied in excess or defect from the normal rainfall, and is hence the difference between the numbers in the third column and 100:—

CALCUTTA, the 10th July 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 6TH OF JULY 1888.

In the report for the previous week it was stated that the monsoon rains had commenced over almost the whole of the province between the 27th and 29th of June, that is, about a fortnight later than usual. The falls up to the 29th ultimo in Orissa and parts of Behar had been rather scanty, but over the remainder of the province general and moderately heavy rainfall had been received. The conditions during the present week have been favourable for general rainfall over all parts of the province except Orissa, and over the greater part of the reporting area rainfall decidedly in excess of the normal has been recorded.

On the 30th of June, or the first day of the present week, conditions were fairly normal, except that wind directions showed a slight tendency to circulation over parts of South-West Bengal. On the 1st July, owing to a fall of the barometer, a distinct area of low pressure was formed over part of Behar and West and Central Bengal, and the lowest pressures recorded were at Ranigunge and Bhagulpore. Wind directions also showed on this day that there was a large amount of interaction taking place over the western and central parts of the province, and this was accompanied by very heavy rainfall. On the 2nd, pressure again fell at the central stations in Bengal, and the low-pressure area became more sharply defined, and a decided cyclonic circulation of winds was set up which affected the wind directions of the greater part of the province. On this day the centre of the depression was apparently between Berhampore and Ranigunge, and again heavy rain was received at many stations. On the 3rd of July the small depression had advanced in a north-westerly direction, and it had almost passed out of the province, and its centre was apparently to the west of Buxar and Dehree, though the western stations in Behar still showed distinctly the influence of the feeble storm. The wind circulation accompanying the depression had advanced with it, and its influence in Bengal had diminished rapidly, though again on this day moderate to heavy rain was received. The depression subsequently advanced into the North-West Provinces, where it filled up and disappeared. On the 4th ordinary monsoon conditions obtained in Bengal, and there were no points calling for comment; but on the 5th instant again a distinct tendency to cyclonic circulation of winds appeared over parts of Western and Central Bengal, and on the morning of the 6th the circulation had been transferred to the south of Chutia Nagpur, though no definite barometric depression appears to have formed in connection with it. The existence, however, of this wind circulation again rendered conditions favourable for the production of rainfall, and moderate general rain was received, though the rainfall on the last two days of the week was not so heavy as during the existence of the depression in the earlier part of the week. As the result of these actions, therefore, rather heavy rain has fallen in all districts except Orissa, and an average fall of from four to six inches has been reported during the week.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure from day to day have not been of much importance, for the depression above described was an extremely feeble one. For the whole province the mean pressure for the week has been generally slightly below the normal, and taking into consideration only the stations for which reliable averages have been obtained, the mean pressure of the province has been 0·029 inch below the normal. In Assam the defect has averaged 0·042 inch.

Temperature.—The temperatures registered during the week under review present a marked contrast with those of the previous three weeks, and the mean temperature of the whole province has now become distinctly below the normal; the defect averaging 0·6°. The largest defects have been in East Bengal, North Behar, and Chutia Nagpur, where they have exceeded 1°; but on the other hand, owing to the comparative absence of rain in Orissa, the temperature of this district has been 1·2° in excess of the normal. In Assam temperature has been below the normal by 1·1°.

Rainfall—As has been above stated, has been heavy in all districts except Orissa. The falls in East Bengal, North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur vary between five and six inches; in South-West Bengal and South Behar they are between four and five inches; in North Bengal they have equalled three and a half inches; and in Orissa the rainfall has averaged only 1·34 inch. Compared with the normal, the falls in South-West Bengal, East Bengal North Behar, and Chutia Nagpur have been between two and three inches in excess; in South Behar the excess fall has equalled one and a third inches; but the falls have been in defect in North Bengal and Orissa. The defect in North Bengal equals about twelve per cent. of the normal, but that in Orissa is more serious, and it equals about fifty per cent. of the normal fall Centres of heavy rainfall during the week have been rather numerous, and a very large number of stations have received almost as much rain during the week as they had previously received during the whole of June. Centres of particularly heavy rainfall are to be found at such stations as Ranigunge, which has received 12·43 inches in the week, while Mankur in the Burdwan district has recorded 10·63 inches, Maliara (Bankoorah district) 9·02 inches, Cox's Bazar 19·98 inches, Buxa (Darjeeling district) 18 78 inches, Darjeeling 12·23 inches, Mozufferpore 10 43 inches, Sitamurhi (Mozufferpore district) 10·75 inches, and Chatra (Hazaribagh district) 9·32 inches. Several of these stations, it will be seen, have been directly influenced by the depression above described.

On the other hand, the only districts in which scanty falls have been received, and practically almost the only stations also which have received little rain, are those in Orissa; but even here at such stations as Cuttack, Baripada, Jellasore, Balasore, Bhudruck, Chandbali, Dhurmsalla, Banki, and Jajpur, fairly good rain has been received.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 6th of July 1888 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The numbers of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the European element above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during four weeks ended 26th May 1888.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was an increase in both the upward and downward despatches. The former was due to demands from Foreign Railways, and the latter to despatches to the Eastern Bengal State Railway viâ the Jubilee Bridge.

Piece-goods, European.—This increase was due chiefly to despatches from Howrah, consequent on the large number of marriages during the period.

Gunny.—Due to export traffic in grain and seeds.

Other fibres, raw.—Due to the continuance of increased despatches of hemp from Allahabad, referred to in previous reports, and also to despatches of saboy grass from Barsarpur to Bally for the manufacture of paper.

Fruits, other kinds.—Principally in betel-nuts from Howrah and Sealdah.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—There was a decrease in the weight carried attended with a slight increase in earnings; the former was due to less despatches to Howrah, and the latter to larger despatches up-country.

Government Stores.—Chiefly in ammunition from Howrah for the Ordnance Department.

Minerals.—The increase was due to the same cause as assigned in previous months, viz., the demand in Calcutta owing to the construction of the Kidderpore Dock-works.

Iron.—Chiefly due to despatches of pig iron from Howrah to Cawnpore and Peshawar.

Salt.—There was a decrease in weight carried, attended with a slight increase in earnings; the former was due to despatches from the Bombay Baroda and Central India Railway viâ Agra and Cawnpore, and the latter to long distance traffic viâ Ghaziabad from the Punjab Salt Mines at Kheora to Patna.

Seeds.—The increase was chiefly in linseed and mustard and rape seed to Howrah for shipment to Europe.

Spices.—This is due principally to large despatches of chillies from Mokameh and stations on the Tirhoot State Railway.

Sugar, refined and unrefined.—The small increase in the earnings was due to the short distance cross traffic between Aligarh and Hathras, and Ghaziabad and Delhi, for the Bombay Baroda and Central India Railway in both cases.

Tobacco.—Due almost entirely to the despatches from Tirhoot.

Potatoes.—The increases were principally in despatches from Patna and Dinapore to Calcutta.

Bones.—Due to despatches from numerous stations to Bally, where crushing mills have been erected during the last few years.

DECREASES.

Cotton.—Due to same cause as reported last month, viz., bad crops.

Wheat.—Due to a poor demand for export and low prices in Calcutta.

Gram and pulses.—The decrease was principally from stations between Allahabad and Cawnpore.

Other rain and spring crops.—Due to larger despatches last year to Agra to meet scarcity in Rajputana.

Brass and copper.—Due to less despatches owing to high prices.

Railway material, Foreign.—The decrease was both from Howrah and viâ Jubbulpore, owing to the completion of the Indian Midland Railway.

A collection of essays in which the writer attempts to prove the superiority of the social regulations of the Hindus to those of Europeans. RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON INLAND EMIGRATION FOR THE YEAR 1887.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—INLAND EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 12th July 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report on Inland Emigration for the year 1887.

The Report has been submitted with punctuality by Dr. Grant, who continued to be in charge of the office of Protector of Emigrants throughout the year, while Dr. Chandra was again the Medical Inspector in Calcutta, and Dr. Vincent Richards held the dual appointment of Embarkation Agent and Medical Inspector at Goalundo.

2. The only administrative change of importance which occurred was the revision of the form of way-bills for contractors and sardari emigrants, so as to dispense with the inspection formerly insisted upon at Mugra, but rendered unnecessary by the opening of the Hooghly Bridge and the consequent uninterrupted passage of emigrants from the East Indian to the Eastern Bengal line. It is reported also that the removal of the terminus of the latter Railway from Goalundo to Rajbaree, necessitated by the rapid erosion of the riverbank, led to a corresponding transfer of arrangements for the embarkation of emigrants.

3. The principal feature in the report is the great increase shown in the emigration of labourers recruited without reference to the Act. These are called free emigrants, though, as they are conveyed in large batches at the cost of contractors and execute labour contracts at Dhubri on their entering into Assam, their actual position during the journey and their eventual legal position are the same as that of the labourers whose recruiting and whose journey are supervised by Government. The number of these free emigrants to Assam was 21,851, as against 13,134 in the preceding year, and there was also considerable emigration to Cachar and Sylhet, as to the extent of which the Protector can supply no information. A virulent outbreak of cholera, which occurred since the close of the year among coolies travelling by the line most frequented by these unregistered emigrants, has led to suggestions, now under consideration, for the sanitary supervision of all coolie traffic to Assam. It appears that in regard to the circumstances under which they are collected, detained in depôts, and forwarded to Assam, there is no distinction whatever between free coolies and others; so that the necessity for sanitary control is the same in respect of the two classes of emigrants.

4 Two agencies are employed for recruiting under the Act—that of licensed contractors, and that of garden-sardars authorised by the employers of labour. The former recruited 2,945 labourers, as against 2,924 in 1886; the latter 6,748 as against 10,124. From these figures it would appear that the unlicensed recruiting referred to in the last paragraph, having almost superseded the work of the contractors, is now rapidly ousting that of the garden-sardars. It is observed with satisfaction that only one license, a recruiter's, had to be cancelled on account of the holder's misconduct. Ten sardarnis were employed in recruiting females, and these are said to have, as far as is known, worked satisfactorily.

5 From the statement showing the districts of registration and of residence of emigrants. it appears that the 24-Pergunnahs and Burdwan in Bengal, and Shahabad in Behar, are the largest recruiting grounds, and that the proportion of emigrants who were natives of the districts in which they were registered, was largest in Hazaribagh and Bancoorah, and smallest, as usual, in the 24-Pergunnahs and Burdwan, where registration was most active. Dr. Grant has supplied no illustrative maps of the kind recently suggested by Government, and it is explained that the omission was due to his ill-health and hurried departure from India on sick leave. In this instance, however, a map based on the statements referred to would be of comparatively little value, as the figures apply only to the small body of coolies recruited through contractors.

6. The aggregate number of contractors' emigrants and their dependents was reduced, prior to arrival at Calcutta, by the low percentage of 1·70, there being no deaths, and the results at this stage comparing favourably with those of the preceding year. The percentages of rejections and discharges fell from ·43 to ·23 and from 6·56 to 6·10 respectively, but that of desertions rose from 8·52 to 14·66, an increase which is said to have been due for the most part to a large number of coolies absconding, in their impatience for work, from one of the depôts on the decline of the business of a contractor, who had subsequently to retire from the field altogether.

7. The depôts are reported to have been maintained throughout the year in a condition favourable to the health of their inmates, and no overcrowding occurred. The food provided for the coolies was sufficient, wholesome, and well cooked, while the hospitals were properly maintained, and the supply of drugs and other necessaries was adequate. All the coolies received into the depôts were vaccinated, none being allowed to proceed to the labour districts except after successful subjection to the operation, and the general health of the depôt population contrasted favourably with that of 1886, itself a healthy year, the death-rate showing a reduction from 2·4 to 1·3 per mille of the total number of admissions. It was pointed out in the Resolution upon last year's report that the number of rejections, although small, might be still further reduced if greater strictness were observed in the medical inspection of emigrants prior to their despatch from the recruiting districts, and the satisfactory decrease in 1887 is no doubt correctly attributed to an improvement in the direction thus indicated. During transport on board the river steamers to Assam, only two deaths, one of which was due to cholera, occurred; and the general accommodation, water-supply and sanitary arrangements during the voyage are shown by the remarks of inspecting officers on the way-bills to have been satisfactory. The mortality among coolies during the voyage to Cachar and Sylhet, generally made in country boats, was less than in 1886: but the number of desertions was much larger, the latter result being ascribed in some measure to the circumstance that emigrants in boats have to stop at Naraingunge, where they are said to be enticed away, or induced to abscond and take employment in the jute mills of that place. The remarks in this paragraph refer only to the comparatively small proportion of emigrants making contracts under the Act in the districts of recruitment, as those who execute contracts at Dhubri, forming the greater part of the whole supply of articled coolies, are not subject to sanitary supervision while in Bengal.

8. Particulars of the journeys of sardari emigrants are again incomplete, only 2,280 of a total of 2,802, whose contracts for Sylhet and Cachar were registered in the recruiting districts, having been accounted for by the receipt of 298 batches of way-bills, and no information being available regarding the remaining 522. The percentage of total casualties in 1887, as far as can be judged, was 7·19 against 6·77 in 1886, and this excess occurs exclusively in the number "left behind." It is, as the Protector remarks, much to be regretted that the way-bills are not carefully filled in at each of the inspecting stations.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor has to acknowledge Dr. Grant's efficient administration of the Department during the year under report.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE METEOROLOGICAL DEPARTMENT, 1887-88.

The following report is published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

REVENUE DEPT., The 16th July 1888.

P. NOLAN,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

IN connection with the discussion of the desirability of generally shortening the Administration Reports of the Departments of Government, it has been decided that in future the Meteorological Reporter is to submit for two years only brief accounts of the principal points in connection with the administration of his Department, while every third year he is to prepare full, detailed and comprehensive reports for the three yearly periods. The present report may therefore be taken to be the first of the triennial series, and only the more important changes in the history of the Bengal Meteorological Department during the year 1887-88 will be touched upon, and all descriptions as to the working of the individual observatories, &c, under the control of the Meteorological Reporter, and similar details will be held over till the preparation of the report for 1889-90.

The Department was at the commencement of the official year under the control of the permanent head of the Department, Mr. John Eliot; but on his appointment to act as Officiating Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India, the Department was entrusted to my care, and I have remained in charge up to the close of the official year.

The largest amount of change in the work of the Department introduced during the year under review has been in the storm warning signal service.

The official position which the Meteorological Reporter occupied previously with respect to issuing warnings of the formation and approach of storms was that he was expected specially to give notice of the occurrence of storms in the Bay, which were likely to affect the ports of Calcutta and Chittagong, while he was also to give general information as to the existence of storms in the Bay. As a matter of fact, however, the Bengal Meteorological Reporter has for some years made it a practice to telegraph warnings of the existence of severe storms in the Bay to the various ports which were likely to be affected by the storm, but such warnings had no official status, and it rested entirely with the discretion of the officials at the ports warned, whether they made any use of the information supplied to them or not. On the other hand, also, the Bengal Reporter had never been empowered to issue such warnings to any ports, except those above named, and it was purely discretionary on his part to take up this extra work.

Storm signals were indeed only supplied to the ports of Calcutta and Chittagong and to the Telegraph stations in the river approaches to Calcutta. The signals used differed largely in complexity, and in the amount of information which could be afforded by them. At the stations in the river approaches to Calcutta it was possible for the Meteorological Reporter by means of appropriate signals to warn the shipping proceeding up or down the river of the size and intensity of a storm in the Bay, and of the probable position in which the storm would reach the coast. These signals were, however, not allowed by the port authorities to be displayed in Calcutta, and only a small code of signals was provided for the port of Calcutta, notifying the actual existence of or the approach to the port of large and very fierce cyclones. It had thus happened on several previous occasions that after ships had left their safe anchorages in the port, and were proceeding down the river, they were met with the display of storm signals giving them information of the existence of stormy weather, which rendered it undesirable for them to proceed to sea. In other words ships were allowed to leave the Port and to proceed some distance towards the danger without being apprized of it, when the information could equally well have been communicated to them before they left the port. In the case of Chittagong, a very simple code of two day and two night signals was employed, one a warning signal and the other a danger signal of similar nature to those used generally in such cases.

This condition of the storm warning service has, however, been completely changed during the year 1887-88. By a notification issued on the 4th of August 1887, the use of the comprehensive system of signals, which was devised by Mr. Eliot, and which signals were formerly only able to be hoisted in the river approaches to Calcutta, has been extended to the port of Calcutta itself. For the future full information of the formation and course of all important cyclonic storms, whether large or small, can be communicated to the shipping lying in the port of Calcutta, and also in the same way to the inhabitants of the town. The opportunity of the issue of a new notification was also taken to alter the meaning of one of the signals, and a bad weather preparatory signal has been introduced, the meaning of which is that a cyclonic storm of undetermined intensity and magnitude has formed in the Bay, but which is too far distant to enable its line of advance to be determined. By a second notification issued on the same day the duties of the Meteorological Reporter were extended to the warning of the Orissa Ports (Pooree, False Point, Balasore, and Chandbally) of the existence of storms, and of ordering the hoisting of the storm signals at those ports. By the third notification issued on the same day the duty of the Meteorological Reporter in warning the port of Chittagong of the existence and approach of storms and of ordering the hoisting of the signals was again officially recognized, and at the same time the opportunity was taken of amending the wording and meaning of the signals. The signals used in the case of the Orissa ports and at Chittagong are similar to those formerly used at Chittagong, i.e., there are two day and two night signals, the first being the warning and the second the danger signal. It will thus be seen that the Bengal Reporter is charged with the duty of actually ordering the hoisting of the storm signals at all the ports on the coasts of Bengal.

With the permission of the Governments of India and Bengal, the Governments of Madras and of Burmah also issued orders and notifications by which the Bengal Reporter was charged with the duty of giving information of the existence of storms to the ports on these coasts. Owing, however, to certain misunderstandings, the systems adopted by the two Governments differed from each other, and also differred from that sanctioned in Bengal, and in certain cases the Bengal Reporter was asked to undertake responsibilities which were very undesirable. In order to bring about more uniformity in the system of issuing storm warnings, Mr. Eliot, Officiating Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India, visited both Madras and Burmah, and an uniform method of conveying warnings has been arranged by which the Bengal Reporter has to give full information of the formation, growth and line of march of cyclonic storms in the Bay to the Port Officers of the Ports likely to be affected, either direct or through certain selected Port Officers, but the Reporter is not charged with the duty of actually ordering the hoisting of the storm signals, and the Port Officers will utilize the meteorological information conveyed to them in conjunction with their knowledge of local conditions, and the circumstances of the ports, &c., in deciding when it is necessary to hoist the warning or the danger signals and when to lower them. The regulations for working the Burmah and Madras storm signals, which are very clear and precise, were arranged at the close of the official year, and the actual orders of the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India communicating these revised regulations were received on 5th April 1888.

It will thus be seen that the arrangements for working the storm signal service are now complete, and the Bengal Reporter has to warn all ports from Tavoy in the south of Burmah round the whole Bay down to Tuticorin in the extreme south of the Madras Presidency, or roughly he has to warn a coast line about 2,400 miles in length. The work of the Bengal Reporter has therefore been increased very decidedly, and the responsibility of his work under these new arrangements is very great indeed.

In many respects the arrangements for working the storm signals in Burmah and Madras are more satisfactory than those in the case of the Bengal ports, including Calcutta. In the case of the signals used in Calcutta and the river approaches, in addition to the meteorological information which they convey, they are in many cases actual orders to shipping, and it does not appear desirable to make the Meteorological Reporter responsible for giving advice as to whether a ship should or should not be allowed to go to sea when he is extremely ignorant of the capabilities of the various kinds of ships in meeting heavy weather, and as he is quite ignorant of the peculiarities of the river Hooghly, both of which would be important factors in advising in any case. Further, in issuing orders for hoisting storm signals in the other ports he is completely in ignorance of what the signals are intended to protect, for at such a place as False Point the signals might be intended to give warnings to large steamers such as those of the British India Company, while at other ports small steamers, country boats, &c., might only be in harbour, which would be unable to withstand a gale perhaps only a fifth as strong as in the former case. Again the Reporter is perfectly ignorant of the local peculiarities of all the outports. The position which the Bengal Reportor takes up in this matter has been brought to the notice of Government during the past year in several communications. The Port Commissioners and the Port Officer of Calcutta were also consulted in the matter, but they are averse to any change being made in the present system of issuing warnings and hoisting the storm signals, and this responsibility thus still rests with the Reporter.

In order to render the information at the disposal of the Bengal Reporter for working the storm warning system as complete as possible under existing circumstances, sanction was accorded by the Government of India to the inclusion of a larger number of reporting stations in those sending telegraphic information to Calcutta for the daily report. In this way the observations from the meteorological stations at Rangoon, Moulmein and Bassein are now being included, and sanction was also accorded to the establishment of five new observatories for inclusion in the system. Of these five, the Tavoy observatory in South Burmah was established in March 1888, and is now sending daily telegrams. An observatory at Pooree on the Orissa coast was established before the close of the official year, but there has been a little delay in establishing the three new stations on the Madras coast at Nellore, Cuddalore and Bimlipatam, but steps have been taken to establish them as soon as possible. The cost of this extension of the storm signal service is Rs. 12,500 annually, but almost the whole of this sum (about nine-tenths) is simply for the cost of telegrams. When these new stations are thoroughly started, the information at the disposal of the Bengal Reporter will be fairly complete, though so long as there is no telegraphic communication with the Andaman Islands, and it is thus impossible to obtain meteorological observations from that place, the most important area in connection with the generation of cyclones or what is sometimes called the birthplace of cyclones remains entirely unrepresented. The subject of connecting the Andaman Islands by telegraph with the main land was prominently brought forward during the year under review in connection with the generation of the Balasore cyclone, but hitherto it has been impossible to secure this most desirable result.

In connection also with the generation of cyclones in the extreme south of the Bay, and from which area storms usually advance towards the South Madras coast, the meteorological station at Nancowry in the Nicobar Islands would be a very valuable addition to the present list of stations; but here again there is the difficulty that there is no telegraphic communication between these islands and the main land.

Lastly, in connection with the advance of cyclones towards the north-west angle of the Bay, and towards the mouth of the Hooghly, by far the most important station to enable early warning of the precise intensity of a storm to be given to the port of Calcutta would be the Eastern Channel Light ship; and if it were possible to connect this observing station with Saugor Island by telegraph, it would enable certain information of the intensity of storms at the head of the Bay to be communicated to the port of Calcutta at least six hours earlier than is possible under existing circumstances.

In the future developments of the storm signal service the connection of the Andaman Islands, the connection of the Eastern Channel Light-ship, and of the Nicobars by telegraph with the main land should be steadily kept in view.

It has been stated in previous annual reports that next in importance to the Andaman Islands Observatory in affording information of the generation of cyclones, the Diamond Island Observatory gives the most important observations, and it has been regretted that on numerous occasions the Diamond Island telegraph line has become interrupted just at the most critical periods. The cause of the interruption has been ascertained to be due to no fault of the officials in charge, but that the telegraph line passes through a narrow belt of cleared forest in joining with the main system of telegraphic communication, and thus at the very commencement of stormy weather trees were blown down or branches broken off, which falling on the line destroyed the communication, as stated previously, at the precise period when its observations became of great value. This fact was once more brought into prominence in the history of the Balasore cyclone, when again this line became interrupted, and the Government of India has since decided to widen the belt of cleared forest through which the line passes at a cost of Rs. 19,500, and thus it is to be hoped that in future there will be no fear of interruption in this important part of the service.

As it is of the utmost importance that information of the approach of, or even of the existence of, stormy weather, should be conveyed to ports with the least possible delay, the Director-General of Telegraphs has arranged that when it is necessary for the Meteorological Reporter to issue orders directing the hoisting of storm-signals, or when it is necessary for him to call for additional observations to enable him to decide on the nature and track of a storm, he shall have power to issue or call for precedence telegrams, which shall rank before ordinary urgent telegrams in priority of despatch. This is, however, only one of the many ways in which the Meteorological Department is indebted to the Telegraph Department

In order also to facilitate the receipt of the weather messages, and thus to enable the reports of this Department to be issued, or the necessary action in the matter of issuing storm-warnings to be undertaken with the least possible delay, a change has been introduced in the method of receiving the messages in this office.

Hitherto the method of receiving telegrams in the Meterological Office direct from the Central Telegraph office has been by what is called the ABC instrument. This method of telegraphing is admittedly very slow, and the instrument frequently gets out of order. With a view to obviate this, an additional clerk, who was taken on at the time of the extension of the storm signal service, was selected for his knowledge of the system of Morse telegraphy, and also five of the clerks of this office have since been trained in the same system, and there is now no difficulty in receiving the meterological telegrams in this office by this method, which is undoubtedly the most rapid system known. By this means the weather reports can be prepared and issued much earlier than was formerly the case, and the telegrams for the Bay of Bengal Daily Weather Report are now received, the observations reduced, charted,&c., and the report written and printed off about two and-a-half to three hours after the observations are actually made, instead of about five hours after as was the case in former years. A great part of this acceleration is also due to the very rapid manner in which the telegrams are now sent in by the Telegraph Department, and I have to thank Mr. Blissett, Chief Superintendent of Telegraphs, Bengal Division, for the very great help this Department has received at his hands, both in the acceleration of the telegraphic work generally and in the matter of training the clerks in telegraphy.

Another point of importance in connection with the issue of the Bay of Bengal Daily Weather Report is to be introduced at the commencement of the next official year, or on 1st April 1888. The time at which the observations are made is to be changed from 10 A.M. as in former years to 8 A.M., and the experiment is at present ordered to last till the end of 1888. The 10 A.M. observations are also being continued at all the Bengal stations which telegraph daily for the report, and the funds for the payment of the extra observations have been supplied by the Meteorological Reporter for India, who will subsequently decide as to which hour of observation should be continued for the future. The change in the hour of observations, together with the acceleration in the service previously mentioned, will now enable me to commence the issue of the printed report daily at about 10-45 A.M. instead of at 3-30 or 4 P.M., as has been the case in former years. The advantages of the acceleration are obvious. Storm warnings, if necessary, can be issued early in the day or about 9 or 10 o'clock directly the 8 A.M. telegrams are received. Also the weather report will be in the hands of the port authorities, the masters of ships, shipowners, and others interested in the weather and shipping early in the business day instead of at its close as was formerly the case.

In connection with the storm signal service it must be also mentioned that during the formation and existence of the Balasore cyclone warnings of its formation and line of march were issued widely to all the principal ports round the Bay, and on its approach towards the head of the Bay storm-signals were displayed in the river approaches from 8-25 A.M. of 25th May to 7 A.M. of the 27th May. Detailed reports have been submitted during the year as to the action taken by me during the Balasore cyclone, and therefore the matter need not again be detailed here. The Balasore cyclone was an extremely fierce one, and a history of its formation, &c., has been prepared by Mr Eliot, Officiating Meteorological Reporter for India, and published as Part I of the Cyclone Memoirs. The second occasion on which the signals were hoisted in the river was from 1 P.M. of the 12th June to 12-30 P.M. of the 13th, during the advance of another cyclonic storm to the Orissa coast. In addition to these two storms there were very numerous rainy season whirls or smaller cyclonic storms. These, however, will only be described in the usual meteorological summary for the year, which is prepared later on, and no description of the cyclonic storms formed in the Bay will appear in the Administration Report.

The above represents a short summary of the principal changes which have been introduced in the working of the Department during the year, and, generally speaking, in other respects the system of work which has obtained in former years has been maintained.

The following was the number of stations reporting observations to this Department during 1887-88:—

1st class Imperial observatory	1
2nd „ „ observatories	2
3rd „ „ „	21
3rd „ Provincial „	28
Other stations reporting for the storm-warning service only ...	10
4th class stations or stations, where records of rainfall only are made	250

Compared with the previous year these numbers show the following additions:—

3rd class Provincial observatories	2
Rainfall station	1

Of these stations the following were the numbers inspected during the year:—

2nd class observatory	1

and the majority of the stations with a few bad exceptions were found in good order. Of those inspected, the observatories at Julpaiguri, Malda and Purneah were in decidedly bad order, while of the other observatories the records submitted from Tezpore were valueless, being full of errors, and this observatory is perhaps the worst in the whole system.

Some changes have been introduced during the year in the work of some of the observatories by order of the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India. Thus the synoptic observations taken at Patna, Chittagong, Sibsagar, Dhubri, Hazaribagh, and Cuttack in connection with the international reports of the United States Signal Service have been stopped. The use of the solar radiation and grass radiation thermometers at all the observatories previously using them in Bengal has been discontinued except at Dhubri, Darjeeling, and Silchar. On the other hand, special extra observations have been ordered to be made during the current year at Dhubri to enable this station to complete the required amount of records as a second class observatory, and at the end of 1888-89 this station will be reduced to one of the third class; and lastly, the special allowances for meritorious service which were previously drawn by several observers in Bengal, have been stopped, as the Government of India has withdrawn the whole of these allowances, as they do not appear to have brought about the general improvement of the observations which it was hoped they would have done.

In the office establishment there have been no radical changes during the year, and there has only been the addition of one clerk which was necessary in connection with the extension of the storm signal service. The whole office establishment has worked most satisfactorily throughout the year, and the various daily, weekly, monthly, and special reports with maps, etc., have been published regularly and submitted up to date throughout the year without break of any kind.

The following statement gives the expenditure on account of the Bengal Meteorological Department during the year 1887-88 as kept in the books of this office, together with the sanctioned grants under each head :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h. 10h. 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 85, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

N.B.—In the weekly abstract from 24th to 30th June 1888 read 83·1° for ·83 as the mean temperature of the 28th.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentages, saturated air being represented by 1·0. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past ... stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

* Means for six days.

for the week ending Friday, the 13th of July 1888.

CALCUTTA, the 17th July 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 13TH OF JULY 1888.

DURING the previous week ordinary monsoon conditions had prevailed for the greater part of the time over the province, though a distinct barometric depression had passed through the western districts. Thus heavy rain had been received in all districts except Orissa, and the falls over a considerable area had been nearly twice as large as the normal. At the commencement of the present week conditions continued of ordinary monsoon character, and for the first three or four days no change of any importance occurred. On the morning of the 10th, however, the observations generally showed that the monsoon current blowing at the head of the Bay was falling off in strength, though conditions still fairly were normal. On the 11th a rather rapid fall of pressure took place across the centre of the Bay, and winds began to show a slight tendency to cyclonic circulation over the same area. On the morning of the 12th these conditions had developed into a decided barometric depression accompanied by a well-marked cyclonic circulation of winds, though the velocities registered at the coast stations were small. On the morning of this day the centre of the small storm was probably a considerable distance from land and about south-east of Gopalpore. On the morning of the 12th all the ports on the west coast from Balasore down to Coconada were warned of the existence of the storm in the Bay. During the evening of the 12th the observations received indicated that the storm had intensified slightly, and that it was approaching the land in the direction of the South Orissa coast, and at 4 A M on the morning of the 13th the appropriate storm signals were hoisted in the port of Calcutta and in the river Hooghly, signifying that the storm would cross the coast to the south of False Point. The ports on the west coast were also warned of the movement of the storm at the same time. At 8 A.M. of the 13th the centre of the small storm was approaching the coast between Pooree and Gopalpore, and during the evening and night of the same day the centre crossed the coast between these two stations. Between midnight and one o'clock in the morning of the 14th, the ports on the west coast were again informed that the storm was passing inland, and the storm signals in the river and the port of Calcutta were lowered.

At no time did the storm appear to be a very fierce one as judged by the wind velocities or by the fall in the barometric pressure at the coast stations, though a most complete cyclonic circulation of winds accompanied the storm, but at sea rather bad weather undoubtedly existed. The log of the City of Cambridge has been kindly placed at the disposal of the Meteorological Office by Captain Thoms, and this steamer in her course from Ceylon to Calcutta passed through the south-east and east of the storm area, but probably at some considerable distance from its centre. The following are some portions of the description of the weather experienced by this vessel in her passage up the Bay :—On the 12th July.—"Very high sea getting up. Fierce squalls Sea very heavy. 13th July.—Heavy gale with fierce squalls, very heavy sea, and later on wind and sea moderating. 14th July.—Hard squalls. Heavy sea. 8 P.M. arrived at Saugor" It is therefore evident that the small storm was decidedly fierce at sea, though as it passed over the land it appeared to be comparatively feeble

During the formation and existence of the small storm, as is usually the case, the rain-bearing winds were deflected from Bengal by the cyclonic circulation which had been set up, and rainfall was probably heavy over the sea area, and it was hence light over the large part of the province. For the latter half of the week, therefore, rainfall was generally not so heavy as in the earlier part, and thus rainfall for the week over the province has been considerably smaller than probably it otherwise would have been.

Pressure.—The pressure variations during the week have, as before described, been partly dependent on the formation and advance of the small storm in the Bay, and thus the mean pressures for the week at the Orissa stations generally show a very distinct defect. At False Point the defect has equalled 0·049 inch, and at Cuttack 0·042 inch. In other districts of the province the defects of the mean pressures from the normal have either been very small, or in some cases in the east and north of the province, pressure has even been slightly in excess of the normal. For the whole of Bengal the mean pressure for the week has been 0·012 inch in defect of the normal. In Assam, on the other hand, the average pressure has been in excess by 0·006 inch.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the week have been of very little importance. For the whole province the mean temperature for the week has been 0·4° in excess of the normal; the largest excess registered is 1·0° in Orissa, where again rainfall has been scanty. On the other hand, temperature in Assam has been 0·7° below the normal.

Rainfall—Has been moderate only throughout the week; the heaviest falls have occurred in North Bengal, the stations in which have averaged nearly three inches of rain. In South-West Bengal, East Bengal, North and South Behar, and in Chutia Nagpur the falls have averaged from one and a half to two inches; while in Orissa the fall has only equalled about an inch. The fall in North Bengal has been equal to about 90 per cent. of the usual fall for the period; in South Behar it has equalled 73 per cent.; in South-West Bengal and North Behar 59 per cent.; in Chutia Nagpur 52 per cent.; in East Bengal 48 per cent.; and in Orissa 36 per cent. Speaking roughly, therefore, the fall of the whole province has equalled about 60 per cent. of the normal.

In Assam the following rainfalls for the week are recorded :—At Silchar 5·83 inches, at Sibsagar 3·38 inches, and at Dhubri 1·44 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 13th of July 1888 :—

Rules regarding purchases made by Agents of the Commissariat Department.

1. Agents of the Commissariat Department have, by virtue of their office, the care and the responsibility for the safe and proper storing, and keeping in the places appointed for the custody thereof, of all goods in their charge. They are also at times required to make purchases on behalf of Government, for which they are provided with public funds.

2. If agents, instead of receiving advances from Commissariat officers, obtain goods from vendors on credit, and pay for them after receipt of payments of their bills for the said goods, it should be understood that such procedure is unauthorized and beyond the scope of their authority, and the outside public and dealers in general are hereby informed that the Commissariat Department does not hold itself responsible for any debts or liabilities which are incurred by its agents, unless they are specially authorized by the Commissariat officer to purchase on credit.

3. The transactions of Commissariat agents are entirely between themselves and the vendors; the Commissariat officer pays the agent's and not the vendor's bills; and the circumstance of the purchaser being an agent of the State will not render the State liable for purchases made on credit given to the agent.

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days. ORDERS BY THE LIEUT.-GOVERNOR OF BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL.

NOTIFICATION.

The 17th July 1888.—It is hereby notified for general information that, in exercise of the power vested in the Local Government by section 351 of Act III (B.C.) of 1884, and on the recommendation of the Commissioners of the Basirhaut Municipality, made at a meeting, the Lieutenant-Governor confirms the bye-laws set forth below, which have been framed by the Commissioners of the said Municipality, under section 350 of the said Act.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

For the Conduct of Municipal Business.

1. The ordinary meetings prescribed by section 38 of the Act shall be held at the office of the Commissioners at a fixed hour of a fixed day of each month, to be decided upon at the last ordinary meeting of the preceding year.

2. A notice of the business to be brought forward at every meeting shall be circulated, by hand or post, to each Commissioner, and shall be hung up at the office of the Commissioners not less than three days before the date of the meeting.

3. Any Commissioner desirous of submitting any motion to the meeting must forward a copy of such motion to the Chairman not less than seven days before the date of such meeting for incorporation in the notice of business. A notice book shall be kept in the office of the Commissioners in which all notices of motions shall be entered. All such notices shall be dated and numbered as received.

4. At ordinary meetings the business shall be transacted in the following order, unless the President, with the consent of the majority of the members present, determine otherwise :—

(a) The minutes of the last ordinary meeting, and of any special meeting since held, shall be laid before the meeting, and, if approved as correctly entered, shall be signed by the Chairman.

(b) Any business postponed from the last ordinary meeting.

(c) The business contained in the notice of the meeting prescribed by Rule 2 above in the order in which it appears in the notice paper, unless the President, with the consent of the majority of the members present, determine otherwise.

(d) Additional business brought forward by the President with the consent of the majority of the members present, provided that any decision recorded or resolution adopted in regard to such business shall be subject to confirmation by the next ordinary meeting.

5. At an adjourned meeting, no business, save that which the original meeting left unfinished, shall be transacted, except as provided in Rule 7 below.

6. At a special meeting no business save that for which the meeting was called shall be transacted, except as provided in the following rule.

7. Provided, however, that any additional business may be brought forward at an adjourned or special meeting, subject to the conditions of Rule 4(d) above, and also subject (in the case of an adjourned meeting) to the full quorum required by section 42 of the Act being present.

8. Every motion or amendment shall be reduced to writing and seconded before being put to the meeting or debated. The mover of any motion or amendment may withdraw the same at any period of the debate.

9. Every amendment shall be so worded as to form an intelligible sentence either alone, or in its proper place, in an original motion, as the case may be; provided that no amendment can merely negative the original motion.

10. The President may, for reasons to be entered in the minutes of the proceedings—

(a) rule that a motion or amendment is illegal or out of order; and

and may in case (a) refuse to put the motion or amendment to the meeting, and in case (b) refuse to put the motion or amendment to the meeting, unless and until the proposer and seconder accept the alterations so made, and the decision of the Chairman shall be final.

11. In discussing questions coming before the meeting, a Commissioner shall speak from his place, shall rise when he speaks, and address the President. A Commissioner shall not be allowed to read his speech, but he may refresh his memory by referring to notes, and he may read, as part of his speech, passages from books or papers cited in support of his argument. At any time, if the President rises, any Commissioner speaking shall immediately resume his seat. No Commissioner shall be heard except upon business then regularly before the meeting, or by permission of the President specially obtained, in explanation of what he had said in a previous debate. No Commissioner, other than the mover, shall speak more than once upon a question, except by way of interpellation, or by permission of the President, but the mover shall be allowed, if he have spoken to the question when making his motion, to close the debate with a reply. A Commissioner who has spoken upon a motion may speak once again upon any amendment thereof afterwards moved. And a Commissioner may explain, by permission of the President, what he has before spoken, if it has been misunderstood. No Commissioner in debate shall name another Commissioner.

12. Votes shall be taken either by show of hands, or by poll, or by both. The votes of the Commissioners at a poll shall be taken by the President. Any three Commissioners present may demand a poll. When the show of hands has been taken, the President shall declare whether the resolution has been carried or not, and every matter shall be held to be decided and concluded on such declaration being made, unless a poll be at once demanded.

13. Voting by proxy is prohibited; and no member may vote upon any motion or amendment unless he be present in person at the time when it is put to the vote.

14. When an amendment upon any motion is moved, or when two or more such amendments are moved, the President, when taking the sense of the meeting thereon, shall read the terms of the original motion and of the amendment or amendments proposed. If there be but one amendment proposed, the question shall be put as proposed to be amended. If the amendment be carried in the affirmative, the original motion falls; but if the amendment be negatived, the original question shall be put to the meeting. If more than one amendment be proposed, the President shall put that amendment first, which he thinks may most conveniently be first disposed of; and so, if necessary, of all the others. If any motion as made involves several points, the President, at his discretion, may divide it, so that each point may be determined separately.

15. When any Commissioner shall have occasion to ask a question of another Commissioner relating to the business of the meeting, he shall ask the question through the President.

16. Subject to the foregoing rules, the President shall regulate the course of all business brought before any meeting of the Commissioners. He shall preserve order, and all points of order shall be decided by him. No discussion on any point of order shall be allowed, unless the President shall think fit to take the opinion of the Commissioners thereon. Any Commissioner may at any time submit a point of order for the decision of the President.

17. No subject once finally disposed of can be reconsidered within six months, except on a question signed by not less than two-thirds of the Commissioners.

18. For the purpose of taking into consideration any particular business, a meeting may resolve itself into a Committee of the whole of the Commissioners present. When this has been determined, the rule prohibiting any person from speaking, except when standing, or more than once on the same question, shall be deemed suspended until the meeting resumes.

19. The Commissioners in meeting may from time to time appoint such and so many Committees, either of a general or special nature, and consisting of such Commissioners as they think fit, for any purposes which, in the opinion of the meeting, can be conveniently regulated and managed by such Committee; but the business transacted by any such Committee shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioners in meeting.

20. The members of each such Committee shall hold office for one year only, but shall be eligible for re-appointment.

21. Any member of a Committee, who, without the previous permission of the Chairman of the Commissioners, shall fail to attend three consecutive meetings of such Committee, shall thereby cease to be a member thereof, and the Committee shall apply to the Commissioners to appoint another member in his place

22. A Committee may meet and adjourn as it thinks proper. The quorum shall consist of not less than three of its members. The President shall be the Chairman of the Commissioners, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman, or, in their absence, any member present elected by the meeting. The rule prohibiting any person from speaking, except when standing, or more than once on the same question, shall not apply to meetings of a Committee.

23. Except as otherwise provided by the preceding two rules, the provisions of the law and of these rules, so far as they relate to the conduct of business at meetings of the Commissioners, shall apply generally to Committee meetings.

RESOLUTION ON THE GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE BHAGULPORE DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1887-88.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 24th July 1888.

READ—

The Annual General Report of the Bhagulpore Division for the year 1887-88.

MR. ALEXANDER was in charge of the Division up to the 15th August, and Mr. Beames for the remainder of the year. The Annual Report is submitted by Mr. Beames. It is meagre and less interesting than Mr. Beames might have made it.

2. Annual tours.—All the District and Sub-divisional Officers were a sufficient number of days on tour.

3. Crops, Public Health, and Material condition of the people.—In Maldah the crops were good: elsewhere they were somewhat below the average. Public health also was bad, and cholera and fever were prevalent. There was a decrease in small-pox owing to the spread of vaccination, which is steadily gaining ground in the confidence of the people. The material condition of the people is said to have improved owing principally to a succession of good crops in previous years. The Collector of Bhagulpore observes:—

"As usual, I have to notice the weavers as worst off among artisans, and year by year they take more and more to agriculture. The trading classes have done a good business, and every year the Marwari seems to me to be getting a greater hold on the district. They are the most prosperous class in all the large towns. The smaller landlords of the district are, I fear, as deeply indebted, in proportion to their numbers, as are their ryots, and a few too of the large zemindars are much involved."

4. Emigration.—While there is a considerable decrease in registered emigration, what is called free emigration is increasing. The Deputy Commissioner of the Sonthal Pergunnahs again strongly complains of the great mischief done under the free recruiting system. Four cases of abduction have come before him for trial under his special powers. What he describes as a crimping system appears to be in full force. Men and women are, he declares, sold for Assam and Cachar without being in any proper sense of the term free agents.

These very serious charges have already been under the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration. Instead of a real system of free labour, there is too much reason to believe that the Act (I of 1882) has had the effect of bringing about a state of things far worse than that which it was intended to supersede. Under the new system the operations of contractors and recruiters continue, and the recruitment is no more spontaneous than it was under the old system: the difference is that these operations are now entirely uncontrolled by the careful check of licensing and registering which safeguarded them under the former system, and, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, some change in the law is imperatively demanded, which shall result in some control being put on the recruitment of labourers before they are deported from the Bengal Province.

The Government of India have been addressed on the subject. In the meantime it would be a good thing if the Deputy Commissioner were to devote his serious attention to detecting and punishing the offences he describes.

5. Manufactures and trade.—But little new is reported under the head of manufactures and trade. The traffic with Nepal was in a disorganised state owing to the internal disturbances in that country.

6. Land Revenue, Cess Collections, Excise, Stamps, and Income-tax.—The Land revenue collections were on the whole satisfactory, amounting to Rs. 33,61,830, or a percentage of 97·12 on the total demand. The cess collections amounted to Rs. 6,30,079, or a percentage of only 85·8 per cent. The total collections of Excise revenue amounted to Rs. 12,11,957, thus showing an increase of more than a lakh of rupees over the previous year's realizations. The Stamp revenue is Rs. 11,00,990, showing an increase of more than half a lakh of rupees. The Income-tax brought in Rs. 2,23,388. Upon the whole the returns of revenue are satisfactory.

7. Education and employment of Mahomedans.—The control of middle and primary schools was transferred to District Boards during the year. The number of pupils increased from 80,511 to 89,720. Mahomedan pupils advanced from 18,429 to 19,660. In the two districts of Maldah and Purneah, in which the Mahomedans form a large proportion of the population, the number of Mahomedans employed in Government service is very considerable in the latter district, but less than might have been expected in Maldah. Out of a total number of 1,634 Mahomedans reported to be in superior service in the whole division, no less than 1,420 are in Purneah. It is possible that there is some error in classification; the figures, as given, deserve the attention of the Commissioner.

8. Local bodies and Municipalities.—The information given on the subject of Local and District Boards is insufficient. The attendance is said to have been generally satisfactory, although in the Bhagulpore district interest seems to have waned. No account is given of the work done by the Boards. The Municipalities in the Division appear to have done some good work, but there is room for much improvement, especially in regard to sanitation.

9. Conduct of Zemindars.—The conduct of zemindars in the Division generally is favourably reported on.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. S. COTTON,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.
